

Acknowledgment of Reviewers for v37

As the editor of Contemporary Jewry, I count on the informed judgment of those of you who volunteer to serve as peer reviewers for articles in your area of expertise. Your advice is essential to us in deciding whether to accept a paper for publication and invaluable to authors when undertaking revisions. In a double-blind review process, at least three experts contribute valuable comments about each paper published in COJE, making it possible to publish high quality work in a timely manner. Here is a list of reviewers who volunteered their time and expertise for v37 of the journal. Do note that any omission is due to human oversight and unintentional. Thank you, reviewers, for your time, energy and commitment to the journal!
