Notes on the Contributors

Thomas Betteridge is Senior Lecturer in the school of Humanities, Kingston University. His publications include Tudor Histories of the Reformation, 1530–1583 (2000).

Patrick Collinson is Emeritus Regius Professor of Modern History at the University of Cambridge and a Fellow of Trinity College. He has written extensively on Elizabethan religion and politics; on William Camden in the Transactions of the Royal Historical Society; and on Elizabeth I in the forthcoming Oxford Dictionary of National Biography.

Susan Doran has written articles and books on Elizabeth I including Monarchy and Matrimony (1996) and a biography for the Historic Lives series to be published by the British Library in 2003. She is a lecturer in history at Christ Church, Oxford.

Thomas S. Freeman is Research Editor of the British Academy John Foxe Project and is affiliated to the University of Sheffield. He has written numerous articles on Foxe and on the English Reformation. He is currently co-authoring a monograph, with Elizabeth Evenden, on the printing of Foxe's Acts and Monuments.

Teresa Grant did graduate work at Birkbeck College, London, and Trinity Hall, Cambridge where, under the supervision of Anne Barton, she wrote a doctoral dissertation entitled 'The Uses of Animals in English Early Modern Drama, 1558–1642'. Her present project is an examination of the staging of Tudor history and its repercussions for the Stuart monarchy between 1595 and 1642. She is now lecturing at the University of Liverpool.

Andrew Hadfield is Professor of English at the University of Wales, Aberystwyth. He is the author and editor of numerous books including Spenser's Irish Experience: Wilde Fruyt and Salvage Soyl (1997), Literature, Travel and Colonialism in the English Renaissance, 1540–1625 (1998), Amazons, Savages and Machievals: An Anthology of Travel and Colonial Writing, 1550–1650 (2001) (ed.), and The Cambridge Companion to Spenser (2001) (ed.). He is currently working on a book entitled Shakespeare and Republicanism.

Lisa Richardson completed a Ph.D. on Sir John Hayward and early Stuart historiography at Cambridge University, and was Julia Mann Junior Research Fellow at St Hilda's College, Oxford. She is particularly interested in the unacknowledged use and imitation of classical and literary models in early modern English historiography.

Jason Scott-Warren is a Lecturer in English at the University of York. He is the author of Sir John Harington and the Book as Gift (2001).

Brett Usher has been an Associate Editor of the Oxford Dictionary of National Biography since 1998 and was Research Fellow at St Mary's College, Strawberry Hill, 1999–2002. His first book William Cecil and Episcopacy, 1559–77 is to be published shortly in the St Andrews Studies in Reformation History series. He is now Research Fellow at the University of Reading.

Alexandra Walsham is Senior Lecturer in History at the University of Exeter. She is the author of Church Papists: Catholicism, Conformity and Confessional Polemic in Early Modern England (1993), Providence in Early Modern England (1999), and of a number of articles and essays on the religious and cultural history of the period. She is currently working on a book entitled Charitable Hatred: Tolerance and Intolerance in England, 1500–1700.
