His dissertation was titled "Modern Midrash: Jewish Identity and Literary Creativity." Rabbi Adam Chalom joined Kol Hadash Humanistic Congregation in July 2004. Chalom is also the North American Dean of the IISHJ, the leadership and rabbinical training institution of the worldwide movement of Secular Humanistic Judaism; he serves on the Executive Committee of the Association of Humanistic Rabbis; and he serves on the editorial board of the quarterly journal Humanistic Judaism. In addition to several periodical articles, he has written adult and youth education curricula, taught leadership and rabbinic training seminars, and presented workshops and keynote addresses at several national conferences.

Peter Derkx is a professor of Humanism and Worldviews at the University of Humanistic Studies at Utrecht, the Netherlands, where he chairs the Department of Foundations and Methods. His main fields of interest are the theory of humanism as a meaning frame and its application to questions of the life course and aging well. Recent publications are Humanisme, zingeving en nooit meer 'ouder worden' (in Dutch, translation of the title: Humanism, Meaning in Life, and Never 'Aging' Any More, Brussels: VUBPress, 2011); Peter Derkx and Harry Kunneman (eds.) Genomics and Democracy: Towards a lingua democratica for the Public Debate on Genomics (Amsterdam/New York: Rodopi, forthcoming).

Barbara Forrest is a professor of Philosophy in the Department of History and Political Science at Southeastern Louisiana University. She is a co-founder of the Louisiana Coalition for Science, which worked unsuccessfully to defeat the 2008 Louisiana Science Education Act (LSEA), a law that permits the use of creationist teaching materials in public school science classes. She is the coauthor with Paul R. Gross of Creationism's Trojan Horse: The Wedge of Intelligent Design (Oxford University Press, 2004; 2007, 2nd ed). She served as an expert witness for the plaintiffs in the first legal case involving intelligent design, Kitzmiller et al. v. Dover Area School District. She is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Center for Science Education and the Board of Trustees of Americans United for Separation of Church and State. She is the 2006 corecipient with Brown University cell biologist Kenneth Miller of the American Society for Cell Biology's Public Service Award. She is also the 2009 recipient of the American Humanist Association's Humanist Pioneer Award.

Sikivu Hutchinson is a senior intergroup specialist for the Los Angeles County Human Relations Commission and founder of the Women's Leadership Project, a high school feminist mentoring program. She is the author of Imagining Transit: Race, Gender, and Transportation Politics in Los Angeles, Moral Combat: Black Atheists, Gender Politics, and the Values Wars, and the forthcoming Godless Americana: Race and Religious Rebels. She is also the founder of Black Skeptics Los Angeles.

Amanda Knief is the managing director and in-house counsel for American Atheists. She coordinates with staff and volunteers to handle logistics, policy issues, and the president's schedule. Amanda also acts as American Atheists' human resources manager. She is a public policy and constitutional expert on religious freedom and civil liberties, and she is the author of The Citizen Lobbyist: A How-to Manual for Making Your Voice Heard in Government. Amanda has a JD from Drake University Law School and a BS in journalism and science communication from Iowa State University. She has previously worked as a legal counsel and legislative drafter for the Iowa Legislature and the lobbyist for the Secular Coalition for America.

Maryam Namazie is a campaigner and blogger. She is the spokesperson for Equal Rights Now—Organization against Women's Discrimination in Iran, the One Law for All Campaign against Sharia Law in Britain, and the Council of Ex-Muslims of Britain. She was selected one of the top 45 women of the year 2007 by Elle magazine Quebec; awarded the NSS's 2005 Secularist of the Year; selected "Iranian of the Year" by Iranian.com in 1997 and 1998; International Rescue Committee medal recipient (1988); and received the Julia B. Friedman Humanitarian Award in 1987. She has co-authored Sharia Law in Britain: A Threat to One Law for All and Equal Rights (One Law for All, June 2010) and Enemies Not Allies: The Far-Right (One Law for All, August 2011), and has an essay entitled "When the Hezbollah came to my School" in 50 Voices of Disbelief: Why We Are Atheists (Wiley-Blackwell, October 2009) amongst others.

Anthony B. Pinn is Agnes Cullen Arnold Professor of Humanities, Professor of Religious Studies, and Founding Director of the Center for Engaged Research and Collaborative Learning at Rice University. He is also the director of research for the Institute for Humanist Studies. He is the author/editor of more than twenty-five books, including The End of God-Talk: An African American Humanist Theology (2012); African American Humanist Principles (2004), and By These Hands: A Documentary History of African American Humanism (2001).

Buster G. Smith is an assistant professor at Catawba College, Salisbury, NC. He earned his BA from Middlebury College in 2003 and his MA and PhD in sociology from Baylor University in 2009. His dissertation examined the relationship between Buddhism and the sociology of religion, by examining the ways in which the study of American Buddhism can inform the theories of the sociology of religion, as well as applying the techniques and methodologies of sociology to this particular topic. He was a postdoctoral fellow at the Institute for Studies of Religion (ISR) from 2009 to 2011 where his work involved the analysis of the Gallup World Poll to determine the current state of religion in the world as well as the way in which religion interacts with other societal and individual characteristics.

Phil Zuckerman is a professor of sociology and secular studies at Pitzer College in Claremont California. He is the author of several books, including Faith No More (Oxford, 2011) and Society without God (NYU, 2008). His latest book is on secular life in America, and will be published by Penguin in 2013. An affiliated professor at Claremont Graduate University as well as the University of Aarhus (Denmark), Phil Zuckerman's research interests include contemporary secularity in all its manifestations.
