
LinguaWrite

Automatic multilingual business letters

What is LinguaWrite?

LinguaWrite is an exciting and versatile software package for creating business letters in the five major European languages. LinguaWrite is the ideal software companion for the Multilingual Business Handbook and Multilingual Business Correspondence Course. It is specially developed for use in business and education.

What can I do with LinguaWrite?

Using LinguaWrite you can:

- have access to the Multilingual Business Handbook database of 2000 specialised phrases in each language: English, French, German, Italian and Spanish
- put these phrases into your word-processor without needing to type them
- search the complete database for key words or multiple key words or limit this search to a particular section
- browse through the database, as if leafing through the book, and select the required phrase at the press of a key
- enter the alphanumeric code given in the book and have the translation instantly
- with just a few keystrokes, build up business letters, like building blocks, instantly on screen
- change the source and target languages at will
- change the menus and messages into any of the five languages at a touch of a key.

The program caters for accents and special non-English characters and these appear correctly in your word-processor as long as it can support the full character set. (An additional package is available to customise national keyboards that do not support the full range of European characters.)

Simple to use

The program is very simple to operate and you can begin work in a few minutes. The accompanying manual is clear and straightforward and written for those who are unfamiliar with computer technology as well as for more expert users.

LinguaWrite is available for BBC and IBM (and compatible) computers.
