

- Accounting perspective, 211, 213
Adaptation theories, 23
Adaptive customization, 27, 31–32
Advertising features, 47, 48
Aggregate decisions, 70, 74, 75–76
Allocation decisions, 67–68, 70, 74–75
Alternative-based approach, 30–31
Anderson Windows, 28
Apple computers, 167
A-Pro, 185
Assemble-to-order operations, 87, 88, 90
Assembly capacity, 90, 94
Assembly sequence, 91–93, 95
 design model for, 93–94
Assembly time, 89, 94
Asymmetric Chamberlin-Dixit-Stiglitz (CDS) model, 10–11, 12–13
Attribute-dependent supply-chain costs, 135–136
Attribute levels, 30–31, 148, 152, 154, 155, 157, 163, see also Ideal attribute levels; Part-worths; Product attributes defined in continuous space, models with in mountain bicycle industry, 181
 in Raman-Chhajed model, 159–160, 174f
Attribute-price space, 125–126
Automobile industry, 69, 106
Auto-Regressive Moving Average model, 72
- Backorder costs, 130
Basic market models, 4–8
Bicycling Magazine, 180
Bike Line, 184
Boeing, 105–106
Brand choice, 42
Brand loyalty, 46–47, 53
Brand name, 48
Brand share, 39–64, see also Brand width
Brand width, 39–64
 logit model and, see Logit model measures of, 44–45
 product structure and, 42–45
 significance of impact on brand share, 50
Build-to-stock model, 67, 68
Buyer's welfare, 149, 154
- Cannibalization effects, 151, 162
Cannondale Corporation, 178, 179, 180, 196, 197
 background of, 182
 customer interface and distribution channel in, 184
 decouple point in supply chain of, 188
 dimensions of variety in, 183, 191–192, 200e
 process technology in, 186
 product architecture in, 188–189
 variety strategies in, 205e
 vertical integration in, 185
Capabilities, 189, 191–192
CBC, 185
Chamberlin-Dixit-Stiglitz (CDS) model, 4–5, 14
 asymmetric, 10–11, 12–13
 defining variety in, 8
 Hotelling-Lancaster model vs., 7
 information and, 10–11
 providing variety in, 9
 symmetric, 10, 12
Choice Seating Gallery, 26–27
COCOMO, 210, 221
CODA, 185
COGS, 107
Collaborative customization, 27, 28
Color, see Frame color
Colorado Cyclist, 184, 196
Combined Model (GL + SFO), 47, 52–54
 calibration and validation results, 49–52
Commonality graphs, xvii, 115–119
Commonality index (CI), xvii, 108, 109, 111t, 115, 117
Common procurement, 131, 135
Communication Feature (CF), 218, 219
Competition
 locational, see Hotelling-Lancaster model monopolistic, see Monopoly passive, 164, 166
Component group, 183
Computer-aided design (CAD), 192
Computer industry, 166–167, see also Software features; Vanilla boxes
Conjoint analysis, 149, 151
Consumers, see Customers
Contestable monopoly, 14, 15
Context, 189, 192–193
Contrast theory, 24
Cosmetic customization, 27–28
Costco, 184
Costs, see also Prices
 backorder, 130
 design, 93, 95, 105–106
 fixed, see Fixed costs holding, 130, 162
 linear variable, see Linear variable costs linking software features to, 217–223 procurement, 130

- product architecture and, 191
- psychic, 6
- semi-separable, see Semi-separable costs
- separable, see Separable costs
- set-up, 130, 142f, 162
- software, 210
- supply-chain, see Supply-chain costs
- Cross-point property, xvii-xviii, 125, 127–130, 139f
- Customer interface and distribution
 - channel, xviii, 179, 181, 184–185, 193
 - by company, 205e
 - variety bottleneck and, 196
- Customer preferences
 - elicitation of, 28–31
 - monotonic, 125, 136
 - product-line design and, see Product-line design
 - uncertain, 41
- Customers, 19–33
 - global maximization and, 23–25
 - increasing desire for variety in, 25–26
 - input from, 29–30
 - presentation of information to, 30–31
 - reasons for variety seeking in, 21–23
 - satisfaction with software features, 213–217
- Custom Foot, 28
- Customization, 26–28
 - adaptive, 27, 31–32
 - collaborative, 27, 28
 - cosmetic, 27–28
 - degrees of, 31–32
 - postponement of, see Postponement
 - site of, 31–32
 - transparent, 27, 28
- Decouple point in supply chain, xviii, 179, 181, 187–188, 193
 - by company, 205e
- Delayed new product introduction, 40, 42, 52–54, 64f, see also Product differentiation delay
- Dell Computers, 30
- Demand
 - forecasting a period of, see Forecast entries
 - in random walk model, see Random walk model
 - for software features, 209
 - task assembly design and, 94
 - vanilla boxes and, 90–91
- Demand elasticity, 7, 9, 10
- Denso International, 105, 106
- Design costs, 93, 95, 105–106
- Designer perspective, 211, 212
- Design for variety (DFV), 103–121
 - industry interest in, 105–108
 - qualitative tools for, 111–119
 - quantitative tools for, 108–110
- Deterministic first choice assumptions, 147, 148, 151
- Developer perspective, 211, 212–213
- Die cutting system, 106, 186, 202e
- Differentiation index (DI), xvii, 108, 109–110, 111t
- Dimensions of variety, xviii, 179, 181, 183–184, 193
 - by company, 205e
 - as competitively distinct, 190–191
 - design/operations capabilities and, 191–192
 - for example companies, 200e
 - identifying new, 196
 - perceived value and, 190
- Display, 47, 48
- Distribution channels, see Customer interface and distribution channel
- Dobson-Yano model, 163, 175f
- Documentation of software features, 215
- Dreyer's ice cream, 43–45
- Economies of scale, 8, 12, 14, 15
- Economies of scope, xv, 8, 12, 16
 - conditions favoring, 13
 - contestable monopoly and, 14
 - multi-product oligopoly and, 15
- Effort estimation model, 221–223
- End items, 183, 184, 194
- End nodes, 41, 43, 44, 45, 47
- Entry, 9–12, 16
- EOQ cost functions, 130, 136
- Equal-fractile allocation, 74–75
- Equilibrium prices, 166
- Equivalent prices, 6
- External situations, 22–23
- Features
 - advertising, 47, 48
 - impact on brand share, 51
 - options provided in, 95
 - salient, 42–44, 47, 50, 54
 - software, see Software features
 - subtle, 42, 43
- Finite set of product alternatives, models with, 152–157

- Fixed costs, xviii, 12, 150, 153, 162
 - in economies of scope, 8
 - models with linear variable costs and, 157–158
- Flavors, 42–44, 52, 54
 - impact on brand share, 50, 51
 - logit model and, 45, 47, 48
 - number of distinct, 44
- Flexible fixtures, 186
- Flexible manufacturing systems, 106
- Forecast errors, 68
 - standard deviation of in geography 1, 79f
 - standard deviation of in geography 2, 80f
 - standard deviation of in geography 3, 81f
- Forecast improvement, 67–68, 73, 76
- Forecast uncertainty, 72–73
- Frame color, 183, 184, 190, 194
- Frame fabrication, 185–186, 187
- Frame geometry, 181, 183, 186, 188, 191
 - schematic illustration of, 201e
- Frame material, 183–184
- Functionality of software features, 211, 213, 214, 216

- Giant, 185
- GL2 model, 51–52
- Global Manufacturing Associates, 105
- Global maximization, 23–25
- GL2 + SFO2 model, 51–52
- Guadagni and Little Model (GL), 46–47, 49–50, see also Combined Model; GL2 model; GL2 + SFO2 model; Number of Distinct SKUs Model; Number of SKUs Model

- Haagen Dazs ice cream, 43–45
- Hard fixtures, 186, 203e
- H.E. Butt, 25
- HeadShok, 185, 188–189
- Hedonic experiences, 24–25
- Heterogenous market segments, 41
- Hewlett-Packard Company, 68, 86, 105, 107, 109, 120
- Holding costs, 130, 162
- Holdout sample, in software features study, 219–220, 222
- Hotelling-Lancaster (HL) model, 4, 5–8
 - Chamberlin-Dixit-Stiglitz model vs., 7
 - contestable monopoly and, 14
 - defining variety in, 8
 - entry decisions and, 11–12
 - information and, 10, 11–12, 15, 16
 - monopoly and, 12–13
 - multi-product oligopoly and, 15
 - providing variety in, 9
- Hybrid conjoint analysis, 151

- IBM, 86, 87, 88, 89, 96
- Ideal attribute levels, 149, 151
 - in Hotelling-Lancaster model, 6, 7
 - product-line design and, 125, 128, 129
 - profit-optimizing product line design and, 147
- Idiosyncratic customer-specific utilities, 152–153
- IID model, 69, 70–72, 76
- Imperfect information, 11, 16
- Independent bicycle dealers (IBDs), 180, 184
- Independent procurement, 130–131
- Information, 9–12
 - imperfect, 11, 16
 - presentation of, 30–31
- Information seeking, 15–16
- Instapak, 27, 31–32
- Integral architecture, 188, 189

- Japan, 167
 - automobile industry in, 69
 - mountain bicycle industry in, 180, 182–183, 190, 192, 194

- Kmart, 180

- Laser cutting system, 106, 186, 189, 192, 202e
- Leadtime
 - commonality vs., 117–118
 - in mountain bicycle industry, 187, 188, 192
 - product-line design and, 130
- Leveraged design, 107
- Life cycle of product line, 96
- Linear markets, 129–130, 133–134, 135
- Linear variable costs, xviii, 150, 162
 - models for profit-optimizing product line design with, 151–157
 - models with a fixed cost per product and, 157–158
- Lines of code (LOC), 220, 221–222
- Locational competition, see Hotelling-Lancaster model
- Logit model, 40, 41–42, 45–52, 148, see also Combined Model; GL2 model; GL2 + SFO2 model; Guadagni and

- Little Model; Number of Distinct SKUs Model; Number of SKUs Model
 - calibration results, 49–52, 59t
 - data description, 48–49, 58t
 - estimation of parameters, 49, 61t, 62t
 - one-segment, 49, 61t
 - specifications, 46–48
 - two-segment, 49, 62t
 - validation results, 49–52, 60t
- Loss aversion theories, 23
- Mabuchi Motor, 105
- Magnitude of relative error (MRE), 222
- Mail order services, 184
- Main sample, in software features study, 219
- Make-to-stock systems, xvi–xvii, 87, 88, 90
- Management
 - in mountain bicycle industry, 194–195
 - in software industry, 215–217, 220–223
- Manitou, 188
- Manufacturing classes, 162
- Market research perspective, 211
- Market spread, 140f
- Martingale model, see Random walk model
- Matsushita Electric, 115, 183
- Merida, 185
- Microwave Instruments Division of Hewlett-Packard (HP-MID), 107, 109, 120
- Modular architecture, 188
- Modular design, 107
- Monopoly, 8–9, 12–13, 125, see also Chamberlin-Dixit-Stiglitz model
 - contestable, 14, 15
- Monotonic customer preferences, 125, 136
- Motion Feature (MF), 218–219
- Mountain bicycle industry, xviii, 177–205
 - case studies in, 182–189
 - managerial decision process in, 194–195
 - outsourcing in, 185, 188, 191, 192
 - overview of, 180
 - strategic decisions in, see Variety strategies
 - tactical decisions in, 181, 199e
 - variety delivery system in, 181, 199e
- Mountain Bike* magazine, 182
- Multi-product oligopoly, 14–15
- Murray, Joe, 182
- National Bicycle Company, 178, 179, 180, 190, 194, 196, 197
 - background of, 182–183
 - customer interface and distribution channel in, 184, 185
 - dimensions of variety in, 183, 184, 192, 200e
 - process technology in, 186
 - product architecture in, 188, 189, 191
 - variety strategies in, 205e
 - vertical integration in, 185
- Number of Distinct SKUs Model (GL + O), 44, 47, 49–50
- Number of SKUs Model (GL + N), 44, 47, 49–50
- Oil pool effect, 11, 15, 16
- Oligopoly, multi-product, 14–15
- One-segment logit model, 49, 61t
- Optimal product line, 127–130, 136, 153
 - for base case, 143f
 - computing, 132–134
- Options
 - portfolio of, 22
 - provided in features, 95
- Order-up-to inventory system, 69, 70, 75–76
- Outsourcing, 185, 188, 191, 192
- Package size, 42–44, 52, 54
 - impact on brand share, 50, 51
 - logit model and, 45, 47, 48
 - number of distinct, 44
- Pairwise interactions among products, model with, 152
- Part-worths, 148, 152, 154, 155, 157, 159
- Passive competition, 164, 166
- Peak and end rule, 24
- Performance of software features, 211, 212, 213, 215
- Point of product differentiation, 69, 72, 84f
- Poisson distribution, 130, 131
- Portfolio of options, 22
- Position Feature (PF), 218–219
- POSSE, 149
- Postponement, xvi, 65–84, see also Product differentiation delay
 - defined, 66
 - IID model of, 69, 70–72, 76
 - in mountain bicycle industry, 187
 - random walk model of, 69, 72–76
 - strategy for, 82f
- Price discrimination, 164
- Prices, see also Costs
 - of each stock keeping unit, 48
 - equilibrium, 166

equivalent, 6
 logit model and, 47
 reservation, 129
 Probabilistic choice settings, 147, 149
 Processing rate, 144f
 Process reversal, 187
 Process sequence graphs (PSG), xvii, 113–114 commonality graph vs., 115–116
 Process technology, xviii, 179, 181, 185–186, 193
 by company, 205e
 Procter & Gamble, 125, 147
 Procurement costs, 130
 Product architecture, xviii, 179, 181, 188–189, 193
 by company, 205e
 costs minimized by, 191
 integral, 188, 189
 modular, 188
 Product attributes defined in continuous space, models with, 155–157, see also Attribute levels
 Product demand, see Demand
 Product differentiation delay, 85–102, see also Delayed new product introduction; Postponement; Task assembly design; Vanilla boxes Product line, 89, 94 adding to an existing, 136
 defined, 126
 life cycle of, 96
 optimal, see Optimal product line
 Product-line design, 128–144 cross-point property and, xvii–xviii, 125, 127–130, 139f profit-optimizing, see Profit-optimizing product line design supply-chain costs and, see Supply-chain costs supply systems and, 130–131
 Product structure, 42–45, 100f
 Product trees, 41, 42–44, 45, 49
 Profit greedy heuristic, 155, 158
 Profit-optimizing product line design, 145–175 directions for future research, 165–168 models with finite set of product alternatives and, 152–157 models with shared manufacturing resources and, 159–164 model with pairwise interactions among products and, 152

Profits
 information and, 10, 11
 monopoly and, 12, 14
 in mountain bicycle industry, 195
 Programmer speed (PS), 220, 221–222
 Psychic costs, 6

 Qualitative tools, 111–119
 Quantitative tools, 108–110

 Raman-Chhajed model, 159–164, 174f
 Random walk model, 69, 72–76
 Rationalizing, 106
 Reliability of software features, 211, 212, 213, 214
 Research
 in design for variety: qualitative tools, 111–119 in design for variety: quantitative tools, 108–110 in profit-optimizing product line design, 165–168
 Reservation price, 129, 135
 Resources, 189, 192–193
 shared manufacturing, models with, 159–164
 Retrospective memory, maximization of, 24–25
 Ritz Carlton Hotel, 28
Rockhopper (mountain bicycle), 182
 Rock Shox, 188

 Safety stock, 70–72, 73
 impact of differentiation point on, 84f reduction of, 83f
 Salient features, 42–44, 47, 50, 54
 Samis Club, 184
 Satiation, 21, 41
 Scatter-shot technique, xv, 15–16
 Scents, 25–26
 Schedule pressure (SP), 220, 221–222
 Seagate, 105, 107–108
 Sealed Air, 27
 Seller's welfare, 153–154
 Semi-separable costs, 131, 144f
 in linear market, 134
 in two-dimensional market, 132–133
 Separable costs, 130, 131, 135, 136
 in linear market, 133–134
 in two-dimensional market, 132
 Set-up costs, 130, 142f, 162
 Set-up fraction, 95–96
 Set-up index (SI), 108, 110, 111t

- Set-up times, 92
- Shared manufacturing resources, models with, 159–164
- Share-of-choices problem, 149
- SIMOPT, 157
- Single-peak preference function, 21
- Sin Nomura, 185
- SLIM, 210
- Slot-and-tab assembly, 186, 189, 204e
- Software features, xviii–xix, 207–224
 - customer satisfaction with, 213–217
 - documentation of, 215
 - functionality of, 211, 213, 214, 216
 - link to cost, 217–223
 - performance of, 211, 212, 213, 215
 - product variety challenges in, 209–211
 - reliability of, 211, 212, 213, 214
 - usability of, 213, 215, 216
- Specialized Bicycle Components, 178, 179, 180, 194
 - background of, 182
 - customer interface and distribution channel in, 184
 - decouple point in supply chain of, 188
 - dimensions of variety in, 183–184, 196, 200e
 - product architecture in, 188
 - variety strategies in, 205e
 - vertical integration in, 185, 191
- Stanford Global Supply Chain Forum, 105
- Stanford Integrated Manufacturing Association (SIMA), 105
- Stimulation, 21
- Stochastic-demand inventory models, 130–131, 135
- Stock keeping units (SKUs), xvi, 40, 41, 43, 209, see also Number of Distinct SKUs Model; Number of SKUs Model
 - delayed new product introduction and, 52–54
 - impact of duplicate on brand share, 50
 - increasing number of, 51
 - logit model and, 45, 48–49
 - stock-out and, 52–54
- Stock-out, 40, 42, 48, 52–54, 63f
- Strategic decisions, see Variety strategies
- Stumpjumper* (mountain bicycle), 182, 192
- Subtle features, 42, 43
- Sun Microsystems, 96
- Supply chain, 196, see also Decouple point in supply chain
 - Supply-chain costs, 125, 127, 135–136, see also Semi-separable costs; Separable costs
 - Supply side, 209
 - Supply systems, 130–131
 - Sybase, 125
 - Symmetric Chamberlin-Dixit-Stiglitz (CDS) model, 10, 12
 - Synergy ratio, 162
- Tactical decisions, 181, 199e
- Task assembly design, 87, 91–96, 102f
 - computational study of, 94–96
- Taste protection, 23–24
- Taste sharpness, 141f
- Technological innovation, 9, 166–167
- Tenko, 112, 113–114, 115, 117, 118, 119, 121
- 3Comn, 96
- Tie-breaking rule, 128, 129, 155
- Toys ‘R Us, 180
- Transparent customization, 27, 28
- Trek (mountain bicycle), 180
- Tube cutting, 185–186, 188
- Two-dimensional market, 132–133
- Two-segment logit model, 49, 62t
- Uncertain preferences, 41
- Uncertainty resolution, 68, 70, 73, 76
- United Airlines, 27
- Usability of software features, 213, 215, 216
- US Filter, 87, 92, 96
- Vanilla boxes, xvii, 92, 93–94, 96, 100f, 102f
 - assembly process in, 88–89
 - computational study of, 89–91
 - efficiency of, 87–91
- Variety bottleneck, 196
- Variety delivery system, 181, 199e
- Variety seeking, 41
 - global maximization and, 23–25
 - reasons for, 21–23
- Variety strategies, 181, 199e, see also
 - Customer interface and distribution channel;
 - Decouple point in supply chain;
 - Dimensions of variety;
 - Process technology;
 - Product architecture;
 - Vertical integration emergence as important variable, 197
 - evaluation and selection of, 189–193
 - measuring/correlating, 197

- summary of, 205e
- Variety Voice of the Customer (V²OC), 119
- Vertical integration, xviii, 179, 181, 185, 191, 193
 - by company, 205e
- Virtual space of product characteristics, 4, 5, 10, 11, 15, 16
- VooDoo Cycles, 178, 179, 180, 191, 192–193, 196
 - background of, 182
 - customer interface and distribution channel in, 184–185
 - decouple point in supply chain of, 187
 - dimensions of variety in, 183, 184, 192, 200e
 - product architecture in, 188, 189
 - variety strategies in, 205e
 - vertical integration in, 185
- Wagner-Whitin algorithm, 132
- Walmart, 25, 180
- Welding, 185, 186, 188, 192, 203e, 204e
- Wholesale clubs, 184
- Window of Knowledge, 28
- X-System mixed-integer programming solver, 154