

Index

A

- Act-centered theory, 162, 163
- Active ego, 25
- Appresentation, 65
  - religious province of meaning
    - epoché*, 98–99
    - Schutz, Alfred, 11
  - tensions of consciousness, 91–93
  - time-perspective, 137–138
  - transcendences, 93
- Appresentative mindset, 11, 13, 14, 184, 223
- Aristotle, 126, 127

B

- Because-motive analysis, 157–159
- Bhagavad-Gita*, 126
- Biographical situation, 67

C

- Christianity, 125, 126, 135
- Comic epoché, 153, 181–184, 189
- Communication, 63
  - paramount reality (see Paramount reality)
  - working vs. non-pragmatic finite provinces of meaning
    - dreaming, 51
    - fundamental anxiety, 54
    - passive synthesis, 53
    - phantasy, 51
    - phenomenological attitude, 50
    - scientific objectivity, 51
    - scientific-theoretical province of meaning, 52
    - spatial and temporal transcendences, 50

- transcendental ego, 52
- ultimate relevances, 54
- unreflective typification, 53

- Conscious intentionality, 150
- Contemplation, 85

D

- Daydreaming, 87
- Death, 113–114
- Discrimination, 30, 142, 161, 169, 210
- Dreaming, 107
  - partial self, 119
  - purposes and projects, lack of, 63, 107
  - standard time, 137
  - tensions of consciousness, 84–85, 91, 92

E

- Epistles, 79
- Epoché*
  - humorous, 153, 155, 159
  - interracial humor, 151–153
  - phenomenological, 152
  - religious province of meaning, 99, 100
    - anonymous, 99, 100
    - appresentation, 98–99
    - cultural innovation, 98
    - Hegelian scientific system, 102
    - individuals and communities, religious attitude, 95–96
    - leap and moment, Kierkegaard's view of, 102–104
    - liminal celebrations, 96, 98
    - liminoid experiences, 96
    - natural attitude, 94, 95, 100, 101

Epoché (cont.)

- phantasms/dreams, 101
- private religious practices, 97
- religious rituals, 96–97
- sacred space, separation of, 96
- sacred times of festivals, 96, 100
- solipsistic philosophizing, 97
- straightforward
  - self-engagement, 101
- of theoretical sphere, 101
- transcendent, 101
- transcendental subjectivity, 95, 98
- vocation, 95
- theoretical, 155
- Ethical appresentation, 142
- Ethnocentrism, 72
- Evil, 121–122
- Experience of oneself
  - humor
    - “eccentric,” 198
    - ego agens*, 201
    - helplessness of addiction, 203
    - humorous flexibility, 199
    - hyper-mastery, 204
    - incongruities, 197, 198
    - intentionalities, disruption
      - of, 204
    - meta-, hyper-strategies, 201
    - regularized typifications, 198
    - religious narratives, 200
    - social order, 199
    - super-ego, 202
    - working self experiences, 202
  - religious province of meaning
    - appresentative mindset, 120, 121
    - evil, problem of, 121–122
    - feminist concerns, response to,
      - 127–128
    - historical narratives, 123
    - hyper-mastery projects of self-defense,
      - 124–126
    - negative theology, 123
    - partial self, 118–120
    - personal narratives, 122
    - 0-point of all coordinates, 119, 120
    - pragmatic agents, 126–127
    - self-typification, 123–124
    - suffering, 122
    - total active self, 118
    - transcendent reality, 121, 123
    - ultimate religious relevances,
      - 124–125
    - working self, 118, 120

F

- Face-to-face humor
  - act-centered theory, 162
  - African-Americans, 160, 161
  - agent-centered theory of ethics, 162
  - conscious awareness, 163
  - controlling ego/conscious planning, 165
  - interpersonal dimensions, 160
  - linguistic-pragmatic dimension, 165
  - oppression, personal relationship, 167
  - phthonic*, 167
  - pragmatics, 161
  - racial features, 159
  - self-typification, 164
  - semantics and syntactics, 161
  - sexist and racist jokes, 162
  - We-relationship, 164
- Fictional abstraction, 65
- Fictional province of meaning, 221
- Finite province of humorous meaning
  - comic epoché, 181–184
  - preliminary clarifications, 173–176
  - spontaneity
    - aesthetic experience, 186
    - amusement, 185–187
    - emotions, 185, 187
    - ethnocentric ego agens, 189
    - incongruity, 186, 189
    - in-order-to motives, 191
    - literature, humor, 191
    - nonverbal sign behavior, 195
    - objective meaning, 190
    - passive-synthesis, 194
    - practical actions, 187
    - pragmatic mastery, 189
    - pragmatic relevance, 192
    - rationality, 188
    - self-centeredness and anxiety, 193
    - simpliciter*, 187
    - sociality, 190
    - transcendent reality, 194
- tension of consciousness
  - disengagement, 176
  - humorous attitude, 176
  - humorous epoché, 180
  - intentional anticipations, 181
  - non-pragmatic provinces of meaning, 177
  - passive syntheses, 179
  - Relief Theory, 178
  - sociality, 180
  - Superiority Theory, 178
  - surrealist art, 177
  - will and passivity, 179

- Finite province of religious meaning enclaves, 80
epoché
 anonymous, 99, 100
 appresentation, 98–99
 cultural innovation, 98
 Hegelian scientific system, 102
 individuals and communities, religious attitude, 95–96
 leap and moment, Kierkegaard's view
 of, 102–104
 liminal celebrations, 96, 98
 liminoid experiences, 96
 natural attitude, 94, 95, 100, 101
 phantasms/dreams, 101
 private religious practices, 97
 religious rituals, 96–97
 sacred space, separation of, 96
 sacred times of festivals, 96, 100
 solipsistic philosophizing, 97
 straightforward self-engagement, 101
 of theoretical sphere, 101
 transcendent, 101
 transcendental subjectivity, 95, 98
 vocation, 95
- experiencing oneself
 appresentative mindset, 120, 121
 evil, problem of, 121–122
 feminist concerns, response to,
 127–128
 historical narratives, 123
 hyper-mastery projects of self-defense, 124–126
 negative theology, 123
 partial self, 118–120
 personal narratives, 122
 0-point of all coordinates, 119, 120
 pragmatic agents, 126–127
 self-typification, 123–124
 suffering, 122
 total active self, 118
 transcendent reality, 121, 123
 ultimate religious relevances, 124–125
 working self, 118, 120
- religious language game, understanding of, 79–80
- religious objects, pluralism of, 81–82
- religious rationalism, 80
- sociality (see Sociality)
- spontaneity, form of (see Spontaneity)
- tensions of consciousness (see Tensions of consciousness)
- time-perspective
 appresentation, 137–138
 phantasy and dreaming, standard time, 137
 ritual celebrations, 138–139
 self-torment, 140
 temporality, 139, 140
 transcendent reality, 138
- Freud's unconscious mechanisms, 32
- G
 Government, 70
- H
 Hegelian scientific system, 102
- Humor
 finite province (see Finite province of humorous meaning) self “eccentric,” 198
ego agens, 201
 helplessness of addiction, 203
 humorous flexibility, 199
 hyper-mastery, 204
 incongruities, 197, 198
 intentionalities, disruption of, 204
 meta-, hyper-strategies, 201
 regularized typifications, 198
 religious narratives, 200
 social order, 199
 super-ego, 202
 working self experiences, 202
- sociality
 African-Americans, 208, 209
 anonymization, 211
 because-motive analysis, 205
 communication, 206
 “community of amusement,” 207
 discrimination, 210
 face-to-face relationship, 208, 210
 humorous attitude, 211
 intersubjective activity, 205
 intimacy, 206
 joking relationship, 207
 predominant culture, 209
 revisable typifications, 210
 specific time-perspective, 211–213
- Husserlian phenomenology, 6
- I
 Idealization, 35
 Incongruity theory, 147
 Intercultural humor, 153–155

- Interpretational relevances, 27
- Interracial humor
 comic example, 153–155
epoché of, 151–153
 face-to-face humor
 act-centered theory, 162
 African-Americans, 160, 161
 agent-centered theory of ethics, 162
 conscious awareness, 163
 controlling ego/conscious planning, 165
 interpersonal dimensions, 160
 linguistic-pragmatic dimension, 165
 oppression, personal relationship, 167
phthonic, 167
 pragmatics, 161
 racial features, 159
 self-typification, 164
 semantics and syntactics, 161
 sexist and racist jokes, 162
 We-relationship, 164
 healing and, 167–170
 intentionality and theories of, 147–150 intersubjectivity of, 156–159
- Intersubjectivity, 205
 interracial humor, 156–159
 paramount reality, 63
 provinces, 220
 solitary pragmatic self, 65–66
- J
 Judaism, 142
- K
 Karma yoga, 125–126
- L
 Liminality, 96, 98, 131, 141–142
 Lutheranism, 90, 112
- M
 Moment, 102–103
 Monotheism, 81
 Motivational relevances, 27
 Motor memory, 83
 Multiple realities, 64 communication (see Communication) pragmatic mastery, interruptions, 72–74 social reality, natural scientific approach, 71–72
- symbol, reality, and society appresentational reference, 66–67
 communicative/significative acts, 64–65, 67–68, 70
 government, appresentation, 70
 idealizations, 67
 non-pragmatic multiple realities, 70–71
 solitary pragmatic self,
 intersubjectivity, 65–66
 transcendences, 68–70
- N
 Natural scientific approach, 71–72
 Nirvana, 88
- O
 Obstructionist relevances, 34
 O'Connor, Flannery, 217, 221–224
- P
 Paramount reality
 implications, 60–62
 intersubjectivity, role of, 63
 revisions
 intersubjective relationships, 57 lower-level bodily movements and typifications, 59
 non-working provinces of meaning, 55
 ontological static entities, 58 personality, 56
 phantasy, 57
 reachability, 56
 second-tier governing principle, 55
 social relationships, 57
 temporal irreversibility, 58
- Parental agency, 168
 Partial self, 50, 89, 119
 Passover celebration, 130, 138
 Perception, 83, 84, 152, 155, 198, 220
 Phantasy, 4, 5, 72
 communication, 51
 partial self, 119
 projects, 63, 107
 standard time, 137
- Phenomenological epoché, 152, 155, 176, 183, 184
- Polytheism, 81
- Pragmatic everyday life
 character
 communication, 29
ego agens, 25, 26
 ethical responsibility, 30

- human consciousness, fundamental
    - tendencies of, 28
  - intersubjective relationships, 29
  - life-plans, 26
  - non-pragmatic approach, 30
  - passive syntheses, 28
  - relevance-orderings, 31
  - relevances, 26, 27
  - spatiotemporal and social
    - coordinates, 25
    - typifications, 27
  - cognitive style, 23
  - engagement levels, 31–33
  - hazards, hyper-mastery and pathologies
    - categorical-conceptual thinking, 42
    - central myths, 43
    - common-sense thinking, 40
    - ethnocentrism, 43
    - higher-level pragmatic strategy, 41
    - hypothetical relevances, 46
    - interpersonal and intergroup
      - relationships, 43
    - looking-glass justification, 44
    - meta-meta-meta-level strategy, 44
    - phantasy, 46
    - possible events, imagining of, 47
    - radical pragmatist philosophy, 41
    - self-defense, 45
    - self-enclosure, 42
  - hyper-mastery, 24
  - imposed relevances into intrinsic
    - relevances transformation
      - analogizing transfer, 36
      - dialectic, 39
      - distant and deploying typification, 35
      - Gestalt patterns, 36
      - language disturbances, 37
      - radical pragmatism, 38
      - spatiotemporal perspectives, 38
      - typification-schemes, 37
    - lower-level pragmatic endeavors, 24
    - meta-level process, 24
    - obstacles, imposed relevances, 33–35
  - Pure memory, 83, 84
  - Pythagorean theorem, 33
- Q
- Qualitative leap, 102
- R
- Rationality, 80
  - Reciprocal legitimation and justification, 65
  - Relief theory, 147, 149, 150
  - Religious belief, 79–80
  - Religious epoché, 182, 183
  - Religious humor, 223
  - Religious pluralism, 81
  - Routinized actions, 31, 32
- S
- Schutz, Alfred
    - cognitive style, 5, 7
    - consciousness, temporal unfolding
      - of, 2
    - eidetic methodology, 4
    - epochés*, 7
    - humorous province of meaning
      - aggressive feelings, 16
      - emancipative dimensions, 17
      - flexibility and versatility, 18
      - Incongruity theory, 15
      - intersubjective relationships, 15
      - social relationships, 18
      - spontaneity, 17
      - temporality, 19
    - inferences, 3
    - multiple realities (see
      - Communication)
    - personal historical-temporal
      - development, 2
    - phantasy, 4, 5
    - phenomenological reduction, 3
    - phenomenologist, 1
    - pragmatic mastery and nemeses, 8–10
    - reality, accent of, 4
    - reflective access, 1
    - regional ontology, 6
    - religious province of meaning
      - appresentation, 11
      - disclosive process, 11
      - normativity, 12
      - placeholder concept, 10
      - rituals, 14
      - self assume prominence, 13
      - sociality, 13
      - social responsibility, 14
      - spontaneity, 12
      - tensions of consciousness, 10
    - spontaneity, form of, 5
    - transcendences, 6
    - typifications, 2
  - Self-affirmation, 169
  - Self-consciousness, 169
  - Self-emancipation humor, 219
  - Self-surrender, 89, 90

Sociality

humor

- African-Americans, 208, 209
- anonymization, 211
- because-motive analysis, 205
- communication, 206
- “community of amusement,” 207
- discrimination, 210
- face-to-face relationship, 208, 210
- humorous attitude, 211
- intersubjective activity, 205
- intimacy, 206
- joking relationship, 207
- predominant culture, 209
- revisable typifications, 210
- religious province of meaning, 128–129
  - cultures, sacred and profane, 134
  - ethical responsibilities to others, 133–134
  - liminal rituals, 131
  - mystical activities, 130
  - phantasms and dreams, 129
  - phenomenological psychology, 134–135
  - responsibility for others, sense of, 133
  - rituals, We-relationship, 129–131, 136–137
  - self-criticism, 131–132
  - socially approved knowledge, 134
  - substantive approaches, 134
  - theodicy, 135–136
  - transcendent’s typifications of oneself, 131, 137
  - violence, surrogate victim, 132
- Social reality, 71–72
- Social scientific theory, 72
- Solitary pragmatic self, 65–66
- Spontaneity
  - finite province of humorous meaning
    - aesthetic experience, 186
    - amusement, 185–187
    - emotions, 185, 187
    - ethnocentric ego agens, 189
    - incongruity, 186, 189
    - in-order-to motives, 191
    - literature, humor, 191
    - nonverbal sign behavior, 195
    - objective meaning, 190
    - passive-synthesis, 194
    - practical actions, 187
    - pragmatic mastery, 189
    - pragmatic relevance, 192
    - rationality, 188
    - self-centeredness and anxiety, 193

simpliciter, 187

sociality, 190

transcendent reality, 194

- religious province of meaning
  - appresentative mindset, 117–118
  - bodily movements, 114–116
  - death, significance of, 113–114
  - fundamental anxiety, 108, 113–114
  - non-working provinces, 116–117
  - normative pattern, 109
  - one’s relevance-hierarchy, 111–112
  - peak experience, 108
  - pragmatic orientation, 109
  - projects and purposes, 107–108
  - secondary relevances, 112
  - theorizing, hybrid form of, 110
  - transcendent personal other, 110–111
  - transcendent reality, 108–112
  - worship/service for its own sake, 109

Superiority theory, 147, 148, 154

Symbolism, multiple realities

- appresentational reference, 66–67
- communicative/significative acts, 64–65, 67–68, 70
- government, appresentation, 70
- idealizations, 67
- non-pragmatic multiple realities, 70–71
- solitary pragmatic self, intersubjectivity, 65–66
- transcendences, 68–70

T

Tensions of consciousness

- finite province of humorous meaning
  - disengagement, 176
  - humorous attitude, 176
  - humorous epoché, 180
  - intentional anticipations, 181
  - non-pragmatic provinces of meaning, 177
  - passive syntheses, 179
  - Relief Theory, 178
  - sociality, 180
  - Superiority Theory, 178
  - surrealist art, 177
  - will and passivity, 179
- religious province of meaning, 82
  - appresentations, 91–93
  - attention to life, 84
  - bodily, working actions, 85–86, 94
  - concentration meditation, 86
  - contemplation, 85
  - daydreaming, 87

- dreaming, 84–85
    - ego agens*, world of working, 87–90
    - inapplicable/useless memories, 83–84
    - motor memor, 84
    - non-working provinces, 86
    - perception, action oriented, 83, 84
    - pure memory, 83, 84
    - self-surrender, 89, 90
    - subconscious/subliminal level, 90–91
  - Theism, 122
  - Theodicy, 135–136
  - Theoretical epoché, 11, 155, 184
  - The Phenomenology of the Social World*,
    - 1, 4, 6
  - Time-perspective
    - humor, 211–213
    - religious province of meaning
      - appresentation, 137–138
      - phantasy and dreaming, standard time, 137
    - ritual celebrations, 138–139
    - self-torment, 140
    - temporality, 139, 140
    - transcendent reality, 138
  - Topical relevances, 27, 33
  - Transcendences, 6, 82, 184
    - appresentation, 93
    - ego agens*, 89
    - spatial and temporal, 51
    - symbols, 68–70
  - Transcendent infinity, 69
  - Trans-signification, 153, 154
- U
- Ultimate concern, 81
  - Universal saintliness, 88
- V
- Violence, 45, 81, 132, 137, 141
- W
- Working
    - communication
      - dreaming, 51
      - fundamental anxiety, 54
      - passive synthesis, 53
      - phantasy, 51
      - phenomenological attitude, 50
      - scientific objectivity, 51
      - scientific-theoretical province of meaning, 52
      - spatial and temporal transcendences, 50
      - transcendental ego, 52
      - ultimate relevances, 54
      - unreflective typification, 53
    - definition, 86
    - self, 50, 51, 85, 118, 199