

A THREE-SENTENCE POSTSCRIPT

Our society has reached a stage in which companies should think and act as thoughtful homo psychologicus.

In addition to the numerical growth, development means that companies possess a higher degree of sophistication in strategizing for who they are and who they are not.

With their corporate personhood redefined, companies will have a better chance to create lasting successes for themselves, as well as for our economic ecosystem.