Genre in Asian film and television : new approaches / edited by Felicia Chan, Angelina Karpovich, Xin Zhang.
p. cm.

Includes index.

Summary: "Genre in Asian Film and Television takes a dynamic approach to the study of Asian screen media previously under-represented in academic writing. It combines historical overviews of developments within national contexts with detailed case studies on the use of generic conventions and genre hybridity in contemporary films and television programmes"—Provided by publisher.

List of Contributors

Felicia Chan is RCUK Fellow in Film, Media and Transnational Cultures at the Research Institute for Cosmopolitan Cultures (RICC) and the Centre for Screen Studies at the University of Manchester. Her research interests lie in issues of cultural translation, intertextuality and modernity in film, literature and other cultural texts. She has published in Critical Studies in Television, EnterText, Inter-Asia Cultural Studies, Refractory, Scope and Chinese Films in Focus II (Chris Berry (ed.), Palgrave Macmillan, 2008).

Michael Christopher studied for his MA in Film and History of South Asia in Berlin. He is currently writing his doctoral thesis on violence in Tamil cinema. He expects to publish his book on Mani Ratnam, a critically acclaimed Tamil Indian film director, in the near future.

Chua Beng Huat is currently Professor in the Department of Sociology and the Asia Research Institute, National University of Singapore. His publications in the field of cultural studies in Asia include Life is Not Complete Without Shopping, as editor, Elections as Popular Culture in Asia and as co-editor, East Asian Pop Culture: Analysing the Korean Wave and the Inter-Asia Cultural Studies Reader. He is also founding co-executive editor of the Inter-Asia Cultural Studies journal.

Mark Hobart is Professor of Critical Media and Cultural Studies at the Centre for Media and Film Studies in the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), University of London. One of his current projects as a critical anthropologist is in the changes in contemporary mass media in Indonesia. In particular, he is interested in the role of television, radio, print and the Internet in framing public discourse – how Indonesians imagine themselves and others in different media.

Angelina Karpovich is an anthropologist and filmmaker who is currently Lecturer in Multimedia and Broadcasting Technology at Brunel University. She is the author of several articles and book chapters on media audiences, media technologies and the relationship between the moving image and modernity. She is the associate editor of Intensities, the journal of cult media.

Hsien-Hao Sebastian Liao is Professor of English and Comparative Literature at the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures at National Taiwan University, Taipei, Taiwan. His research interests include comparative poetics, contemporary literary and cultural theories, cultural policy, and modern Taiwan literature and film. He has published in the American Journal of Semiotics, Journal of Modern Literature in Chinese, Concentric as well as in the collected volumes China and Postmodernism (2000); Postmodernism in Asia: Its Conditions and Problems (2003); Telltale Images: Visions of Lust/Caution from Eileen Chang and Ang Lee (2010); Imaging Taiwan (2010); and La Chine et l'Autre: médiations culturelles entre la Chine et l'Occident à l'époque moderne (2011).

Madhuja Mukherjee teaches in the Department of Film Studies, Jadavpur University, Kolkata, where she is Joint Coordinator of the Media Lab. She has received several national and international research fellowships and is currently researching 'Glass Negatives and Publicity Material of Popular Cinemas (1950s–1960s)'. She has presented papers and published articles on Bollywood, Amitabh Bachchan, Indian studios and P.C. Barua, New Indian cinemas, gender, media, sound cultures and film music. She has edited the volume Ray at Work: ... (2005) and written the book New Theatres Ltd.: The Emblem of Art, The Picture of Success (2009).

Cecilia J. Pang is Associate Professor and Head of Performance in the Department of Theatre and Dance at the University of Colorado, Boulder. She is also a documentary filmmaker whose work has dealt with such issues as immigrant Peking opera artists, women scientists and motherhood, domestic violence and consumer rights. A Fulbright research scholar in Hong Kong (2010), she is currently working on a film about Cantonese opera education.

Ji Yun Park teaches legal English to French law students at the University of Paris 8 and is a holder of a DEA (pre-doctorate degree) in Comparative Literature at the University of Paris 3 (Sorbonne Nouvelle). She is a member of the 'Image of Justice' network and is a doctoral student at the University of Paris 8, under the supervision of Barbara Villez, where her area of research is image and justice.

Temenuga Trifonova is Assistant Professor of Film Studies in the Department of Film at York University, Toronto. She is the author of The Image in French Philosophy (2007) and European Film Theory (2008). Her work has been published (or is forthcoming) in Cineaste, CineAction, QJFV, Substance, Scope, Film and Philosophy, European Journal of American Culture, Film-Philosophy, CTheory, Postmodern Culture, Kinema, Senses of Cinema and several edited collections.

Cobus van Staden graduated in 2008 with a PhD from the University of Nagoya on the subject of the international circulation of anime, focusing on how shared experiences under capitalism aid our enjoyment of foreign culture. He has worked as a television journalist and finished his first feature film in 2007. His academic work has been published in Iconics and Tagen Bunka. He is currently working in Johannesburg as an investigative journalist, directing a series of documentaries for the South African Broadcasting Corporation.

T. Vishnu Vardhan is a doctoral student at the Centre for Media Research, University of Ulster and the Centre for the Study of Culture and Society (CSCS), Bangalore, India. His doctoral thesis is on the subject of Telugu mythologicals. He was an Independent Fellow at Sarai, Centre for the Study of Developing Societies (CSDS), New Delhi, and was actively associated with the Educational Initiatives Programme of CSCS, Bangalore, India. He has also taught courses on film at graduate and postgraduate levels and received a National Award from the Government of India for coproducing a radio feature. He is currently also engaged as a Consultant for the Arts and Culture Programme of Sir Ratan Tata Trust, Mumbai, India.

Valentina Vitali teaches film history and theory at the University of East London. She is the author of Hindi Action Cinema: Industries, Narratives, Bodies (2008) and co-editor, with Paul Willemen, of Theorising National Cinema (2006). Her work has appeared in a number of journals and anthologies, including boundary2, Inter-Asia Cultural Studies, Kinema, Framework, Women: A Cultural Review and Hong Kong Connections: Transnational Imagination in Action Cinema (2005).

Xin Zhang worked as a television news producer in Chongqing, China, before completing a PhD on local and national Chinese television at the University of Wales, Aberystwyth.
