Most of this book grew out of a paper I was asked to write as part of a project for the International Development Research Centre, Canada, by Dr A. S. Bhalla. The paper was entitled 'Information Technology, Globalization and Marginalization' and will appear in a volume edited by Dr Bhalla under the title, Globalization, Growth and Marginalization (Macmillan). Chapter 8 below is reproduced from Development and Change, 24 (3), July 1993.

The author and publishers wish to thank the following who have kindly given permission for the use of copyright material: the World Bank for tables 3-1 and 4-7 from Global Economic Prospects and the Developing Countries, 1996 and also table 3-1 from N. Hanna et al., The East Asian Miracle and Information Technology, Discussion Paper 326, 1996; Oxford University Press for table 17 on page 184 of the Human Development Report, 1997, UNDP, New York; Edward Elgar Publishing for table 2.5 in C. Freeman and J. Hagedoorn, 'Convergence and Divergence in the Internationalization of Technology', in J. Hagedoorn (ed.), Technical Change and the World Economy: Convergence and Divergence in Technology Strategies, 1995; The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development for table 2.2 from C. Antonelli, The International Diffusion of Advanced Telecommunications: Opportunities for Developing Countries, 1991; the World Trade Organization for table 3.1 from GATT, Trends and Statistics, 1994; the United Nations for material from various issues of the Statistical Yearbook and also material from the Yearbook of Trade Statistics, 1993; Macmillan for table 7.1 in S. Watanabe (ed.), Microelectronics and Third World Industries, 1993 and figure 3.1 and table 3.6 in A. S. Bhalla (ed.), Globalization, Growth and Marginalization, 1998; Elsevier Science for table 3 in P. Reddy, 'New Trends in Globalization of Corporate R&D and Implications for Innovation Capability in Host Countries:

A Survey from India', World Development, 25 (11), 1997 and figure 5 from N. Vonortas and S. Safioleas, 'Strategic Alliances in Information Technology and Developing Country Firms: Recent Evidence', World Development, 25 (5), 1997, with permission from Elsevier Science Ltd., The Boulevard, Langford Lane, Kidlington, Oxford OX5 1GB, UK. Chapter 8 is a shortened and revised version of an ILO World Employment Program Working Paper, no. 230, 1992.
