

Schooling in the Age of Austerity

New Frontiers in Education, Culture, and Politics

Edited by Kenneth J. Saltman

New Frontiers focuses on both topical educational issues and highly original works of educational policy and theory that are critical, publicly engaged, and interdisciplinary, drawing on contemporary philosophy and social theory. The books in the series aim to push the bounds of academic and public educational discourse while remaining largely accessible to an educated reading public. New Frontiers aims to contribute to thinking beyond the increasingly unified view of public education for narrow economic ends (economic mobility for the individual and global economic competition for the society) and in terms of efficacious delivery of education as akin to a consumable commodity. Books in the series provide both innovative and original criticism and offer visions for imagining educational theory, policy, and practice for radically different, egalitarian, and just social transformation.

Published by Palgrave Macmillan:

Education in the Age of Biocapitalism: Optimizing Educational Life for a Flat World

By Clayton Pierce

Schooling in the Age of Austerity: Urban Education and the Struggle for Democratic Life

By Alexander J. Means

Schooling in the Age of Austerity

Urban Education and the Struggle for Democratic Life

Alexander J. Means

palgrave
macmillan

SCHOOLING IN THE AGE OF AUSTERITY
Copyright © Alexander J. Means, 2013.

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 2013 978-1-137-03203-4

All rights reserved.

First published in 2013 by
PALGRAVE MACMILLAN®
in the United States—a division of St. Martin's Press LLC, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

Where this book is distributed in the UK, Europe and the rest of the world, this is by Palgrave Macmillan, a division of Macmillan Publishers Limited, registered in England, company number 785998, of Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS.

Palgrave Macmillan is the global academic imprint of the above companies and has companies and representatives throughout the world.

Palgrave® and Macmillan® are registered trademarks in the United States, the United Kingdom, Europe and other countries.

ISBN 978-1-137-03204-1 ISBN 978-1-137-03205-8 (eBook)
DOI 10.1057/9781137032058

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Means, Alexander J., 1977–

Schooling in the age of austerity : urban education and the struggle for democratic life / Alexander J. Means.
p. cm.

1. Urban schools—United States—Case studies. 2. Public schools—United States—Case studies. 3. Children with social disabilities—Education—United States—Case studies. 4. Education—Social aspects—United States—Case studies. 5. Equality—United States—Case studies. 6. Neoliberalism—United States—Case studies. I. Title.

LC5131.M37 2012
370.9173'2—dc23

2012033670

A catalogue record of the book is available from the British Library.

Design by Newgen Imaging Systems (P) Ltd., Chennai, India.

First edition: February 2013

Transferred to Digital Printing in 2013

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction: Schooling in a Time of Crisis and Austerity	1
Part I Neoliberal Schooling and the Politics of Security
1 Securing Precarious Urban Futures	15
2 Chicago and the Management of Social Research	37
Part II Narratives of Enclosure and Possibility
3 Learning by Dispossession: Objective Violence and Educational Failure	55
4 Criminality or Sociality: A Zero Sum Game?	89
5 Searching for Human Security and Citizenship	119
Conclusion: Public Schooling for a Common Security	145
Notes	157
Bibliography	165
Index	175

Acknowledgments

Like all large projects, this book owes a debt to the kindness and generosity of many people. I should begin by thanking all of the educators, activists, and young people at Carter High School who took the time to talk with me and whose perspectives and experiences animate the text. Kathleen Gallagher needs to be singled out as well for supervising my PhD. Her passion and insight into ethnography and the study of culture and human beings has been a source of great inspiration. My gratitude also goes to Ken Saltman. His continued intellectual engagement and generosity have informed my thinking on a wide range of the issues taken up in this project, particularly around the relationship between security and neoliberalism. This project has also benefited from the support of many scholars who have provided opportunities and inspiration over the last several years. I would like to particularly thank Henry and Susan Giroux, Robin Truth Goodman, Roland Sintos Coloma, Megan Boler, Roger Simon, Pauline Lipman, Stephen Haymes, Michael Peters, Noah De Lissovoy, Chris Robbins, Tyson Lewis, Miles Weafer, Diane Uí Thonnaigh, Bryan Hoekstra, Kendall Taylor, and Josh Shepard. I owe special thanks to Kari Dehli, Caroline Fusco, and Alan Sears for serving on my PhD committee and for their support of my work. Special thanks also to those in the Critical Reading Group and the Society and Security Project at OISE, especially Shahrzad Mojab, Amir Hassanpour, Sara Carpenter, Tara Silver, Jesse Bazzul, and Chris Arthur. I also want to thank my friends Michael Conway and Paul Aitken. Paul Aitken, in particular, deserves being singled for gracefully accepting his role as my primary computer technician, document formatter, music collaborator, and sounding board for my various neurotic anxieties about academic life. Special thanks are also due to my family, especially to my sister Sarah for opening her home to me during the research phase of this project and also for providing continued inspiration through her talents as a teacher. Thanks also to Ken Berkey and to my twin nieces Cecelia and Caroline and nephew Jack for generally making things more interesting on my visits to Chicago. Thanks are also due to both my parents for their unconditional love and support over many years. My father's lifelong commitment to ideas and his enthusiasm for my work and our discussions on critical theory and politics continue to be deeply appreciated. And finally, and most importantly, to Anna Gelino, whose friendship, love, and support mean everything.