Acknowledgements

The research for this book was completed with the help of financial assistance from the University of York, UK, the Lady Meherbai Tata Trust, the British Federation of Women Graduates and the Lotus Trust of India. I am deeply grateful for their generosity. In addition to financial support, a research project of this nature requires the support of many people across different continents. I am indebted to the anonymous women whose accounts form the basis of this book, who generously shared with me their most precious resource, their time. I hope I have done justice to their accounts and their enthusiasm for my project. I am also grateful to many others who, under conditions of anonymity, shared personal anecdotes that first alerted me to the questions that inform this project.

The research began at the Centre for Women's Studies (CWS) at the University of York. I am indebted to Professors Stevi Jackson and Haleh Afshar and to the staff at CWS, Dr Ann Kaloski-Naylor and Professor Gabrielle Griffin and Harriet Badger, for their unstinting personal and academic support. I also thank Professor Bhikhu Parekh for his valuable advice on my work.

Back in India, Dr Geetha Narayanan and my colleagues at Srishti School of Art, Design and Technology welcomed a social scientist and her project into a creative melting pot of artists, designers, activists and scholars. I thank my colleagues Sathish Jayarajan and Vandana Goswami for intellectual support, Ajai Narendra for patiently following up on all my requests for references and Swami and Geeta for being such cheerful and helpful librarians. Thanks are also due to Manini Menon for help with indexing and to Beena Ullal, Manjul Menon and Aruna Chidambi for proofreading the manuscript. That said, the responsibility for any mistakes in this book, typographical or otherwise, is solely mine!

My sincere gratitude to the editorial team at Palgrave Macmillan, especially Philippa Grand, Andrew James and Naomi Robinson, for their support and gracious responses to every request for an 'extension'. Equally sincere thanks are due to Professor Rajeev Gowda and Professor M. N. Panini in India and to Dr Linda Perriton and Dr Anne Akeroyd in Britain who are never too busy to offer advice, support and humour. I also thank the anonymous reviewer whose thoughtful suggestions have strengthened my arguments and conclusions.

My heartfelt gratitude to friends in Bangalore, Anupama Mahajan, Monisha Srichand and Anita Rajnarayan, for their support, and to my 'transatlantic support system', Diana Peters, Deepa Parija and Krithika Jagannath and their wonderful families. Finally, I thank my grandparents, Late Sri Balamada B. Kushalappa and Srimati Sita Kushalappa, who have had more influence on this book than they can imagine.
