Acknowledgments

I am most grateful to my aunt Kathalyn McCoy, my family, and friends. Their loving support and guidance have been a foundation as I developed my research. I am also grateful to the Guadalupanas of the Shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe whose hospitality, honesty, and sincerity were the basis for which I was able to write this book. I also wish to thank the Shrine Association who shared their oral history and historical documents with me. I am grateful to Fr. James Betzen; his parish staff, particularly Teresa Ruiz, Lucilla Rodgers, Cathy Hernandez, and Rachel Ramirez; the members of the parish of Sacred Heart; and the Westside neighborhood who warmly welcomed me and allowed me to interview and research their community and history. I also appreciate the assistance I received from the Diocese of Kansas City-St. Joseph, Missouri, particularly Br. Dale Mooney, Sr. Jean Beste, and former chancellor George Noonan. I am grateful to Fr. C. Michael Coleman, archivist of the Diocese of Kansas City-St. Joseph, and to the archivists of San Antonio Catholic Archdiocesan Archives and the Catholic Archives of Texas, Austin, Texas.

I am also very grateful to the Hispanic Theological Initiative funded by the Pew Charitable Trusts for a fellowship for several years of research. I greatly appreciated the support of Dr. Daisy Machado, Dr. Zaida Maldonado-Perez, Joanne Rodriguez, and Dr. Justo Gonzalez of the Hispanic Theological Initiative. I also wish to thank the Dr. Anthony Stevens-Arroyo and the Office of Research for Religion in Society and Culture and PARAL (Program for the Analysis of Religion Among Latinos), funded by the Lilly Foundation, for the training fellowship in scientific research methods. I also appreciate the support I received from the University of Missouri-Kansas City for a semester's leave to continue the research and analysis.

I also had several wonderful mentors who listened, challenged, and encouraged my work. They were Dr. Miguel Carranza, Dr. Norma Cantú, Dr. Orlando Espín, Dr. Timothy Matovina, Dr. Lara Medina, Dr. Peter Phan, Dr. Sharon Ringe, Dr. Jeanette Rodriguez, and Dr. Clovis Semmes.

I also thank Dr. Mary Cerney (RIP), Dr. Alice Chang, and Dr. Laura Scott, who helped me to believe that I could write this book. I thank my writing group: Dr. Kindel Nash and Dr. LaVerne Berkel for their support and editing. I also wish to thank my friends who supported me during this time of writing—María Antonietta Berriozábal, Dr. Betty Blackmon, Dr. Karen Dace, Dr. Carmen Nanko, Cindy Shelkofsky, Sr. Barbara McCracken, and Sr. Gabrielle Kocour. I am also grateful to Alexandra Schmidl Rosenthal, who helped with the transcriptions; Ulrike Guthrie and Judy Ancel who assisted with editing the manuscript; Douglas Bowles, who assisted with the maps; and the editorial staff of Palgrave Macmillan, Burke Gerstenschlager and Maddie Crum.
