

PALGRAVE STUDIES IN THEATRE AND PERFORMANCE HISTORY is a series devoted to the best of theatre/performance scholarship currently available, accessible, and free of jargon. It strives to include a wide range of topics, from the more traditional to those performance forms that in recent years have helped broaden the understanding of what theatre as a category might include (from variety forms as diverse as the circus and burlesque to street buskers, stage magic, and musical theatre, among many others). Although historical, critical, or analytical studies are of special interest, more theoretical projects, if not the dominant thrust of a study, but utilized as important underpinning or as a historiographical or analytical method of exploration, are also of interest. Textual studies of drama or other types of less traditional performance texts are also germane to the series if placed in their cultural, historical, social, or political and economic context. There is no geographical focus for this series and works of excellence of a diverse and international nature, including comparative studies, are sought.

The editor of the series is Don B. Wilmeth (Emeritus, Brown University), PhD, University of Illinois, who brings to the series over a dozen years as editor of a book series on American theatre and drama, in addition to his own extensive experience as an editor of books and journals. He is the author of several award-winning books and has received numerous career achievement awards, including one for sustained excellence in editing from the Association for Theatre in Higher Education.

Acknowledgments

I have been able to write this book because of the help of colleagues, friends, and loved ones who have generously lent their expertise, resources, help, and support. The first debt of gratitude is to the late Daniel Gerould, who was the Lucille Lortel Distinguished Professor of Theatre and Comparative Literature at the CUNY Graduate Center and director of Publications of the Martin E. Segal Theatre Center. It was Dan's teaching and scholarship that first led me to discover the current of alternative spiritual performance that is the focus of this book.

Two other scholars and teachers who were essential to the writing of this book are Marvin Carlson and Pamela Sheingorn, who helped to shape many of the ideas that ended up in this book when I was studying for my PhD in Theatre Program at the Graduate Center of the City University of New York.

Other significant supporters of this work include the late Grace F. Knoche (former Leader of the Theosophical Society in Pasadena, CA), Randell C. Grubb (current Leader of the same organization), and David Wietersen, who so patiently helped me sort through documents and photographs at the Theosophical Society Archives. Anna Pauli at the archives at the Goetheanum (Documentation Goetheanum) in Dornach, Switzerland, assisted me in the process of acquiring images, as did Peter Hewitt from the Museum of Witchcraft in Boscastle, Cornwall. Bill Breeze and Kittie Palakovich provided much-needed assistance in the use of photographs of Aleister Crowley.

With the assistance of a URAF Summer Research Fellowship from the University of Toledo, I was enabled to visit several archives held in the United Kingdom. My visit to the Goetheanum in Dornach, Switzerland, was supported by a Lucille Lortel Travel Fellowship from the PhD in Theatre Program at the Graduate Center, CUNY. A Publication Subvention Award from the University of Toledo's University Research Award and Fellowships Program also supported the development of this publication.

Aepril Schaile, Sarah Jezebel Wood, Lon Milo DuQuette, Constance DuQuette, and Lillith Avalon generously gave time to conversations that provided me with insights into ritual performance, as well as esoteric ideas concerning the connections between art and spirituality. Also thank you to all of the members of the Tahuti OTO Lodge in New York City and the Blue Equinox OTO Oasis in Detroit for the opportunity to attend and participate in ritual performances.

I thank all of my supportive colleagues who work at the University of Toledo in the Toledo Department of Theatre and Film and the College of Communication and the Arts.

Thank you to Troy Acree, Kurt Taroff, Deirdre O'Leary Cunningham, Jim Cherry, Crystal Benedicks, Constance Zaytoun, Dyrk Ashton, Ben Pryor, Ammon Allred, Julian Brash, Sam Shanks, Jenna Soleo-Shanks, Amy Hughes, Frank Hentschker, Michael Cramer, Jason Winslade, Jen Danby, Barry Boehm, and Lance Gharavi for patiently dedicating time to what must have seemed, at times, rather like a one-track conversation. You all contributed more to this book than you think.

My sons, Jude and Clint, provided me with love and support as I wrote this book. I owe the deepest gratitude to my dear wife, Risa Beth Cohen. Thank you, Risa, most of all for all you have done for me.
