

Cultures of Obsolescence

CULTURES OF OBSOLESCENCE

HISTORY, MATERIALITY, AND
THE DIGITAL AGE

EDITED BY
BABETTE B. TISCHLEDER AND SARAH WASSERMAN

palgrave
macmillan

CULTURES OF OBSOLESCENCE

Copyright © Babette B. Tischleder and Sarah Wasserman, 2015.

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 2015 978-1-137-47089-8

All rights reserved.

First published in 2015 by

PALGRAVE MACMILLAN®

in the United States—a division of St. Martin's Press LLC, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

Where this book is distributed in the UK, Europe and the rest of the world, this is by Palgrave Macmillan, a division of Macmillan Publishers Limited, registered in England, company number 785998, of Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS.

Palgrave Macmillan is the global academic imprint of the above companies and has companies and representatives throughout the world.

Palgrave® and Macmillan® are registered trademarks in the United States, the United Kingdom, Europe and other countries.

ISBN 978-1-349-69200-2 ISBN 978-1-137-46364-7 (eBook)

DOI 10.1057/9781137463647

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data is available from the Library of Congress.

A catalogue record of the book is available from the British Library.

Design by Newgen Knowledge Works (P) Ltd., Chennai, India.

First edition: June 2015

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

Contents

List of Figures vii

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction Thinking out of Sync: A Theory of Obsolescence 1

Babette B. Tischleder and Sarah Wasserman

Prelude The Obsolescence of the Human 19

Bill Brown

Part I History

1 Rags, Bones, and Plastic Bags: Obsolescence, Trash, and American Consumer Culture 41

Susan Strasser

2 Architectures of Obsolescence: Lessons for History 61

Daniel M. Abramson

Part II Media and the Digital Age

3 Proliferation and Obsolescence of the Historical Record in the Digital Era 79

John Durham Peters

4 Replacement, Displacement, and Obsolescence in the Digital Age 97

William Uricchio

5 The Future History of the Book: Time, Attention, Convention 111

Kathleen Fitzpatrick

- 6 The Pleasures of Paper: Tethering Literature to Obsolete Material Forms 127
Alexander Starre

Part III Aesthetics

- 7 The Horror of Details: Obsolescence and Annihilation in Miyako Ishiuchi's Photography of Atomic Bomb Artifacts 147
Jani Scandura
- 8 The Poetics of Patination in the Work of William Gibson 173
Hanjo Berressem
- 9 Untimely: Obsolescence, Late Modernism, and the View Out of Giovanni's Room 191
MaryAnn Snyder-Körber

Bibliography 211

Notes on Contributors 225

Index 229

Figures

I.1	Untitled #17, photo by Babette B. Tischleder, 2011	13
P.1	Theaster Gates, Dorchester Projects, 2014	25
P.2	Theaster Gates, 12 Ballads for Huguenot House Installation, 2012	26
P.3	Theaster Gates, Archive House Slide Library, 2014	27
P.4	Theaster Gates, My Labor Is My Protest Installation, 2012	27
1.1	Barrel Chair, Collections of Old Sturbridge, c. 1850	44
2.1	Chicago Office Buildings Demolished, 1930	63
2.2	Project for Plug-In University Node, 1965	69
2.3	Project for Potteries Thinkbelt, 1963–1966	70
4.1	Giovanni Antonio Canal, called Canaletto, Piazza San Marco, 1730–1735	103
4.2	Photosynth composite image of Piazza San Marco, Venice	103
7.1	Ishiuchi Miyako “ひろしま/hiroshima#9”	149
7.2	Ishiuchi Miyako “ひろしま/hiroshima#65”	160
7.3	Ishiuchi Miyako “ひろしま/hiroshima#24”	162

Acknowledgments

Our interest in obsolescence is one that gradually coalesced into a topic of critical inquiry through conversations and exchanges with a number of colleagues and friends over the last few years. We would like to thank Robyn Curtis and Erica Buchman at Palgrave Macmillan for their unwavering support of the project and their expert guidance as they shepherded the manuscript through all the twists and turns of publication. We are grateful to the outside reviewer whose insightful questions and suggestions helped us rethink the project in crucial ways. In the English Department at Göttingen, we thank Mathis Hegewisch for assembling all the notes and Marleen Knipping for her careful finishing touches on the bibliography. Deepa John of Newgen Knowledge Works helped bring this book into being, as did Lisa Rivero with her indexing talents.

This project was born out of a conference panel that took place in 2009 at the annual meeting of the American Studies Association. We are happy that the original panel members Daniel Abramson, Bill Brown, and MaryAnn Snyder-Körber have stuck with us from the beginning. We are grateful for Bill Gleason's input in forming that panel as well as for support from the Princeton English Department and colleagues at the John F. Kennedy Institute in Berlin.

The volume came into being as a result of a conference hosted by the English Department and the Lichtenberg-Kolleg at the Georg-August-University Göttingen in 2013. The conference, "Cultures of Obsolescence in North America: Aesthetics, Materiality, History," was generously supported by the Fritz Thyssen Foundation, the German Association for American Studies, and the Universitätsbund Göttingen. We are indebted to the director of the Lichtenberg-Kolleg, Martin van Gelderen, as well as his team, particularly Dominik Hünninger and Turan Lackschewitz, for hosting the conference in the halls of Göttingen's Historic Observatory, the residence of the eminent scholar Carl Friedrich Gauss from 1816 to 1855. We thank our colleagues and the students of the program in North American Studies, who supported the conference in many ways. Emily Petermann co-organized the conference; we are grateful for her dedication that made the event a success from the outset—her intellectual input, help with funding applications, and competence in handling every detail, from communication to travel logistics, were essential. We are also grateful for the intellectual energies of all those who served as section chairs and actively contributed to the lively discussions: Michaela Hampf, Brigitte Glaser, Daniel Stein, and Miriam Strube, as well as fellows and associates of the Lichtenberg-Kolleg: Bill Bell, Barbara Schaff, and William Uricchio. Student assistants Marleen Knipping and Leonie Unger provided technical and practical assistance and made sure that everything went smoothly, and Madita Oeming took wonderful pictures. The conference was exciting and illuminating and we remain thankful that all the participants created such a special atmosphere—an experience of real dialogue and community that inspired and motivated us to undertake this project.

It has been a privilege to work with all the contributors, whose ideas and words have inspired us at every step in the process of publication. We appreciate their generous participation in the ongoing conversation that continued as we put the volume together. We are thankful for their willingness to work with us, to adapt their ideas and to enrich ours; and also for their patience as we brought the volume into its current form. We hope that they recognize how each chapter resonates with the others and contributes to making obsolescence a truly rich field of study.

Individually, we would like to express our gratitude for the many conversations that we have had with friends and colleagues over the course of this project. Their encouragement and support have been invaluable: Zahid Chaudhary, Anne Cheng, Emily Hyde, Jens Klenner, Christina Meyer, Patrick Moran, Simone Salzer, Fred Schmalz, Nicole Schröder, and Moritz Schularick have all made contributions to this project in a variety of ways. Whether by posing a particularly insightful question or by sustaining us with their wit and care, they helped us see the volume to completion. As the topic has entered our psyches and our seminars, we have learned a great deal from colleagues and students who engage with our ideas in the classroom, on the street, and in the many places in between.

BERLIN, September 2014