

PART IV

LOOKING BACK AND MOVING FORWARD

This final section puts the entire process in perspective by summarizing what was learned, encouraging readers to evaluate their current business position and to explore the possibility of establishing manufacturing operations in China. And now the question “What can be done to increase manufacturing in the United States?” is answered from the author’s perspective.