ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This book is possible thanks to two individuals: Joakim Tillman and Chris Penfold. Joakim started out as a contributor and, in one interaction after another, I could clearly see this book would only be a lesser volume without his being my direct collaborator. It has been an honour and a privilege to work with him. Chris Penfold is the true originator of this book's format. I had some notion of writing the theory chapters myself for the entire book, but Chris pointed out that the interviews were with sufficient personages to attract true experts to write individual chapters. Probably this was the best advice I received that entire year!

I would like to give very special thanks to Jack Dubowsky. Similarly to Joakim and Chris, Jack was a big part of what made this book work. I am so grateful to him for his wonderful insights, and ongoing support. Thank you so much, Jack.

The contributions of Joakim, Jack and Chris were invaluable in terms of the project's inception, yet it is the composers, and other contributors, who have made this book a tangible reality. I thank all of the interviewed composers for their kindness and candour, their support of this project, long in gestation. For the contributors, I thank every one of them for their patience with cuts and redrafts, their skill and dedication as researchers and musicologists, and their tireless commitment to promoting a greater understanding of film music.

For their assorted assistance I would like to thank Peter Golub, Rajiv Menon, Lina Aboujeb, and of course my little family, my wife Sarah and our little daughter, Audrey. Daddy gets up every day for work because of the two of you!

Lindsay Coleman

I'm incredibly grateful to all the contributors, not only for their outstanding essays, but also for their diligent and committed work. I would like to thank Lina Aboujieb at Palgrave for her invaluable guidance and help in the production of the book. My deepest thanks go to Lindsay, first for approaching me to write an essay for this book, and then for the even greater confidence of asking me to join him as a co-editor. It has been a very rewarding collaboration, and I'm looking forward to future projects with Lindsay. Finally, I'm extremely grateful for the patience and support of my wife, Åsa, and our two sons, Daniel and Oscar.

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Emilio Audissino is a film historian. He is currently finishing up a post-doctoral research project at the University of Southampton, UK, concerning the application of neoformalism and gestalt psychology to the analysis of music in films. He holds a Ph.D. in the history of visual and performing arts from the University of Pisa, Italy, and specializes in Hollywood cinema, film style, film dubbing, and film music. He is the author of John Williams's Film Music: Jaws, Star Wars, Raiders of the Lost Ark and the Return of the Classical Hollywood Music Style (Madison: University of Wisconsin Press, 2014), the first English-language monograph on Williams.

Lindsay Coleman is a film academic, and an independent documentary producer. His most recent books include Sex and Storytelling in Modern Cinema (London: I. B. Tauris, 2016), and The Philosophy of Pornography: Contemporary Perspectives (Scarecrow, 2014). In addition to these, he is working on a series of books on cinematography, film editing, musical composition for films, and visual effects in modern cinema. He is also working on documentary projects on Hollywood film editing, and Australian cinema.

Jonathan Godsall is currently Lecturer in music at Plymouth University. He completed a Ph.D. in musicology at the University of Bristol in early 2014. Jonathan has overlapping research interests in screen music, musical intertextuality, and musical reception, with publications to date addressing the use of pre-existing music in film. He also performs as a drummer and percussionist in various contexts.

Peter Golub has taught composition at UCLA, Bennington College, and Reed College. Since 1998 he has been the Director of the Sundance Film Music Program, where he runs the yearly Composers Lab, an intensive workshop for aspiring film composers. His film scores include: Frozen River (2008), Wordplay (2006), and The Great Debaters (2007) (co-composed with James Newton Howard). He has scored numerous Broadway productions. He was awarded the Classic Contribution Award by BMI, and is a member of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Katy Jarzebowski is a film composer currently based in Los Angeles, CA. In 2014, she was selected as a composer fellow for the Sundance Music and Sound Design Lab, at Skywalker Sound. Katy studied music composition and film studies at Yale University, and completed her master's degree in film scoring at NYU, where she was awarded the Elmer Bernstein Award and the Sorel Women Composer's Award. Her work includes numerous scores, notably for After Spring, a documentary produced by Jon Stewart, which premiered at Tribeca Film Festival (2016), and follows the lives of Syrian refugees at the Zaatari refugee camp in Jordan. Katy is forever grateful to her parents for being unapologetically militant cinephiles, and her grandparents for passing their musical genes over one generation to the next; she thanks them every day for their enthusiastic support.

Joakim Tillman is Assistant Professor of musicology at Stockholm University, where he teaches courses in music analyses, nineteenth- and twentieth-century music (including film and game music), and opera. He has recently completed a research project about Wagnerian influences in Late Romantic Swedish opera, and his current research focuses on the film music of Elliot Goldenthal, James Horner, and Hans Zimmer. His research has appeared in numerous scholarly journals and edited volumes, including the article 'Topoi and Intertextuality: Narrative Function in Hans Zimmer's and Lisa Gerrard's Music to Gladiator' in Music in Epic Film: Listening to Spectacle, ed. Stephen C. Meyer (New York: Routledge, 2017).

Andrew Waggoner is Professor of Composition in the Setnor School of Music of Syracuse University. Called 'the gifted practitioner of a complex but dramatic and vividly colored style' by the New Yorker, his music has been commissioned and performed by the Los Angeles Philharmonic; the JACK Quartet; and the Academy of St Martin-in-the-Fields, among many others. He has been awarded the Lee Ettelson Composer's Award from Composers Inc., a Guggenheim Fellowship, and the Roger Sessions Prize for an American composer by the Liguria Studies Center in Bogliasco, Italy. In 2009 he received an Academy Award from the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

Felicity Wilcox lectures in music and sound at the University of Technology Sydney. She was awarded her Ph.D. in composition from Sydney Conservatorium of Music in 2013. Her research and practice in interdisciplinary music is informed by her professional background as a screen composer. Under the alias Felicity Fox, she has composed scores for many award-winning Australian film and television productions, receiving multiple ARIA, AFI and APRA/AGSC awards and nominations, and many national and international television broadcasts, and screenings in major film festivals. Along with commissions for over 60 screen credits, Felicity has been commissioned to compose new concert works for Vivid Festival Sydney, Decibel New Music Ensemble, Ensemble Offspring, Ironwood, Halcyon Ensemble, the Australia Piano Quartet, the Sydney Symphony Fellows, and the Australia Ensemble. Since 2015, she has served as a director of the Australian Guild of Screen Composers.

Konstantinos Zacharopoulos is a film composer and musicologist. He is currently a Ph.D. candidate focusing on John Williams's film music (1975–today) at the Department of Music Studies, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. He has won, among others, the Jerry Goldsmith Award for 'Best music for short film' in 2008 (Úbeda, Spain) and film credits include the score for Cornered (2009), a horror film starring Steve Guttenberg and James Duval.
