
Part III

Practical Applications of Communications

Part III of this book considers the areas of nurse management at the point of delivery of care and the specific communication needs of special groups of patients or clients.