

Studies in Global Justice

Volume 18

Series Editor

Deen K. Chatterjee, University of Utah, Salt Lake City, UT, USA

Editorial Board

Elizabeth Ashford, Department of Philosophy, University of St. Andrews, St. Andrews, UK

Gillian Brock, Department of Philosophy, University of Auckland, Auckland, New Zealand

Thom Brooks, Durham Law School, Durham University, Durham, UK

Simon Caney, Magdalen College, University of Oxford, Oxford, UK

Hiram E. Chodosh, President, Claremont McKenna College, Claremont, CA, USA

Jean-Marc Coicaud, Law School, Rutgers University, Newark, NJ, USA

Michael Doyle, Columbia University, New York, NY, USA

Andreas Follesdal, Faculty of Law, University of Oslo, Oslo, Norway

Carol Gould, Hunter College, New York, NY, USA

Virginia Held, Department of Philosophy, City University of New York, New York, NY, USA

Alison Jaggar, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO, USA

Jon Mandle, State University of New York, Albany, NY, USA

Richard W. Miller, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY, USA

Sanjay G. Reddy, The New School for Social Research, New York, NY, USA

David Rodin, University of Oxford, UK

Joel H. Rosenthal, President, Carnegie Council for Ethics in International Affairs, New York, NY, USA

Kok-Chor Tan, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, PA, USA

Leif Wenar, King's College London, UK

Veronique Zanetti, University of Bielefeld, Bielefeld, Nordrhein-Westfalen, Germany

Aims and Scope

In today's world, national borders seem irrelevant when it comes to international crime and terrorism. Likewise, human rights, poverty, inequality, democracy, development, trade, bioethics, hunger, war and peace are all issues of global rather than national justice. The fact that mass demonstrations are organized whenever the world's governments and politicians gather to discuss such major international issues is testimony to a widespread appeal for justice around the world.

Discussions of global justice are not limited to the fields of political philosophy and political theory. In fact, research concerning global justice quite often requires an interdisciplinary approach. It involves aspects of ethics, law, human rights, international relations, sociology, economics, public health, and ecology.

Studies in Global Justice takes up that interdisciplinary perspective. The series brings together outstanding monographs and anthologies that deal with both basic normative theorizing and its institutional applications. The volumes in the series discuss such aspects of global justice as the scope of social justice, the moral significance of borders, global inequality and poverty, the justification and content of human rights, the aims and methods of development, global environmental justice, global bioethics, the global institutional order and the justice of intervention and war.

Volumes in this series will prove of great relevance to researchers, educators and students, as well as politicians, policymakers and government officials.

More information about this series at <http://www.springer.com/series/6958>

Juan Carlos Velasco • MariaCaterina La Barbera
Editors

Challenging the Borders of Justice in the Age of Migrations

 Springer

Editors

Juan Carlos Velasco
Institute of Philosophy
Spanish National Research Council (CSIC)
Madrid, Spain

MariaCaterina La Barbera
Faculty of Social Sciences
Nebrija University
Madrid, Spain

ISSN 1871-0409

ISSN 1871-1456 (electronic)

Studies in Global Justice

ISBN 978-3-030-05589-9

ISBN 978-3-030-05590-5 (eBook)

<https://doi.org/10.1007/978-3-030-05590-5>

Library of Congress Control Number: 2019931944

© Springer Nature Switzerland AG 2019

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are reserved by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

The publisher, the authors, and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

This Springer imprint is published by the registered company Springer Nature Switzerland AG.
The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

Contents

1	De-Bordering Justice in the Age of International Migrations: An Introduction .....	1
	Juan Carlos Velasco and MariaCaterina La Barbera
Part I Human Mobility, Borders and Global Justice
2	Healing the Scars of History: Borders, Migration, and the Reproduction of Structural Injustice .....	17
	Juan Carlos Velasco
3	The Priority of Compatriots as a Challenge to Global Justice: The Case of Open Borders .....	37
	Federico Arcos
4	Common Ownership of the Earth and Immigration: Human Mobility in a Kantian Perspective .....	57
	Daniel Loewe
5	Human Mobility and Borders: The Limits of Global Justice .....	73
	José A. Zamora
Part II Migration Policies and Global Justice
6	Ethical Dimensions of Migration Policies: A Critical Cosmopolitan Perspective .....	95
	Isabel Turégano
7	Expanding the Idea of Structural Injustice: Migrants and Global Justice .....	117
	Francisco Blanco Brotons
8	Migration and Social Suffering .....	139
	Alessandro Pinzani

9	Global Residents in Urban Networks: The Right to Asylum in European Cosmopoleis .....	157
	David Álvarez
Part III Gendering Global Justice in the Age of Migrations
10	Claims for Global Justice: Migration as Lived Critique of Injustice .....	183
	Zuzana Uhde
11	Toward Global Justice: Intersecting Structural Vulnerabilities as a Key Category for Equality Policies in the Age of Bordered Migrations .....	205
	MariaCaterina La Barbera
12	Vulnerability, Freedom of Choice and Structural Global Injustices: The “Consent” to Exploitation of Migrant Women Workers .....	225
	Alessandra Sciorba
13	Integrating Muslim Women Within European Societies: Muslim Human Rights Discourse and the Cross-Cultural Approach to Human Rights in Europe .....	243
	Sonia Boulos
	Index .....	263

About the Authors

David Álvarez is a researcher at the Grupo de Teoría Política of the University of Minho, funded by the Fundação para a Ciência e a Tecnologia de Portugal (FCT). He also is member of the Department of Sociology, Political Science and Philosophy at the University of Vigo. He has been a Postdoctoral Fulbright Researcher at the University of Yale and is a member of the Yale MacMillan Center for Global Justice. mailto: davidalvarez@uvigo.es.

Federico Arcos is Professor of Philosophy of Law at the University of Almería, Spain. He has published several works on the concept and ethical dimensions of legal certainty, justice, and the legitimacy of humanitarian wars and duties in relation to poverty and global justice. He is author of the monographs La seguridad jurídica: una teoría formal (Dykinson, 2000), ¿Guerras en defensa de los derechos humanos: Problemas de legitimidad en las intervenciones humanitarias (Dykinson, 2002), and La justicia más allá de las fronteras: Fundamentos y límites del cosmopolitismo (Tirant Lo Blanch, 2009) and editor of Los derechos y la justicia en un mundo globalizado (Dykinson, 2015). mailto: farcos@ual.es.

Francisco Blanco Brotons is PhD Candidate at the Institute of Philosophy of the Spanish National Research Council and the Complutense University of Madrid, Spain. He has an MA in Philosophy. His research topics include theories of justice and democracy, human rights and modern political philosophy, and global justice. mailto: franciscojose.blanco@cchs.csic.es.

Sonia Boulos works as Adjunct Professor at the International Relations Department of Nebrija University of Madrid, Spain. She holds a Doctoral degree in Juridical Science in the field of international human rights law from the University of Notre Dame, USA. She also completed her LLM in International Human Rights Law from the same university. Boulos has been recipient of a Fulbright scholarship. Her teaching, research interests, and publications focus on international protection of human rights and international law and the use of force. mailto: sboulos@nebrija.es.

MariaCaterina La Barbera is Professor at the Faculty of Social Sciences of Nebrija University, Madrid (Spain). She is PhD in Human Rights from the University of Palermo, Italy. She has worked as a researcher in Italy, the USA, and Spain. Her research covers human rights and lies in between law, politics, and society, gender studies, and international migration studies. She authored numerous journal articles and book chapters (<https://nebrija.academia.edu/MariaCaterinaLaBarbera>), a book monograph entitled Multicentered Feminism (Compostampa, 2009), and edited the volumes Identity and Migration: An Interdisciplinary Perspective (Springer 2015) and Igualdad de género y no discriminación en España: evolución, problemas y perspectivas (CEPC 2016). mailto: mlabarbera@nebrija.es.

Daniel Loewe is Professor of Political Philosophy of the School of Government at the Adolfo Ibáñez University in Santiago de Chile. He has PhD in Philosophy of the Eberhard Karls University of Tübingen. His areas of specialization are political philosophy, moral philosophy, and ethics, with special emphasis on egalitarian theories, multiculturalism, liberal theories, migration, animal ethics, environmental ethics, and international justice theories. He is member of the Research Center for Political Philosophy and of the International Centre for Ethics in the Sciences and the Humanities at the University of Tübingen and member of the Political and Social Theory Research Center and the Millennium Nucleus “Models of Crises” at the Adolfo Ibáñez University. He published many articles in international journals (https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Daniel\_Loewe). mailto: daniel.loewe@uai.cl.

Alessandro Pinzani is Professor of Ethics and Political Philosophy at the Federal University of Santa Catarina, Florianópolis, Brazil, and fellow researcher of the Brazilian National Council of Technological and Scientific Development. He has PhD in Philosophy from the University of Tübingen. He was a Visiting Professor at the Catholic University of Porto Alegre, Dresden, and Bochum. He was a Visiting Scholar at Columbia University, NY; at the Humboldt University, Berlin; and at the University of Florence. His main areas of interest are theories of justice, theories of poverty, neoliberalism, modern political philosophy, and Kant’s political thinking. Among his books are Diskurs und Menschenrechte: Habermas’ Theorie der Rechte im Vergleich (Hamburg, 2000), Maquiavel e “O Príncipe” (Rio de Janeiro, 2004), Diritto, politica e moralità in Kant (con Maria Moneti, Milano, 2004), Ghirlande di fiori e catene di ferro. Istituzioni e virtù politiche in Machiavelli, Hobbes, Rousseau e Kant (Firenze, 2006), Jürgen Habermas (München, 2007), An den Wurzeln moderner Demokratie (Berlin, 2009), and Vozes do Bolsa Família: Autonomia, dinheiro, cidadania (with W. Leão Rego, São Paulo 2013). mailto: alessandro@cfh.ufsc.br.

Alessandra Sciorba is PhD in Human Rights from the University of Palermo and Research Fellow in Philosophy at the University of Bergamo, Italy. Her current research focuses on the right to asylum. She is one of the co-founder of the Legal Clinic for Human Rights of the University of Palermo and member of the Interuniversity Center “L’Altro Diritto.” She has focused on migration and asylum issues from a philosophical/sociological-legal approach from many years, by conducting several fieldworks in Italy and at the European frontiers. She worked at the Council of Europe as Project Manager and consultant for projects focusing on human rights. She is author of several essays and book chapters on human rights, asylum, migration, discrimination, cultural heritage, and migrant women experiences. She is author of the monograph books Campi di forza. Percorsi confinati di migranti in Europa (Ombre Corte, 2009) and La cura servile, la cura che serve (Pacini Edizioni, 2015). mailto: alessandra.sciurba@unibg.it.

Isabel Turégano is Professor of Philosophy of Law at the Universidad de Castilla, La Mancha. Her lines of research include British analytic jurisprudence, feminist moral and political thinking, the concept of constituent and sovereign power, transitional justice, global justice, and supranational constitutionalism. She is the author of the monographs Derecho y moral en John Austin (CEPC, 2001) and Justicia Global: los límites del constitucionalismo (Palestra, 2010) and editor of the volume La justicia de transición: concepto, instrumentos y experiencias (Editorial Universidad del Rosario, 2013). mailto: Isabel.Turegano@uclm.es.

Zuzana Uhde is researcher at the Institute of Sociology of the Czech Academy of Sciences at the research department Gender and Sociology of the Czech Academy of Sciences of Prague, Czech Republic. Dr. Uhde received her PhD in Sociology from the Faculty of Arts, Charles University in Prague. She is specialized in social and feminist theory and research of global interactions and justice. Particularly she focuses on the research of migration, social and gender inequalities, global justice, transnational care practices, and recognition struggles. She is Editor-in-Chief of the academic journal Gender and Research. She has held Fulbright fellowship at the University of California, Berkeley, USA, and other fellowships in Brazil, Hungary, Slovakia, Lithuania, and France. She has published book chapters and articles in Czech, English, or Chinese on feminist critical theory, cosmopolitan critical theory, migration and global justice, transnational care practice, politics of care, and feminist struggles. Her latest publications include From Women's Struggles to Distorted Emancipation (International Feminist Journal of Politics, 2016). mailto: zuzana.uhde@soc.cas.cz.

Juan Carlos Velasco is Senior Tenured Scientist at the Institute of Philosophy of the Spanish National Research Council of Madrid, Spain. His main research areas are philosophy of law, ethics, and politics, with a special focus on human rights, justice, migration, and democracy (https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Juan\_Carlos\_Velasco). He was Research Fellow of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation. Among his numerous publications are Habermas: El uso público de la razón (Alianza, Madrid 2013), El azar de las fronteras (FCE, México 2016), and, as co-editor, Global Challenges to Liberal Democracy: Political Participation, Minorities and Migrations (Springer, Dordrecht 2013). He is the head researcher of the project "Human Rights and Global Justice in the Context of International Migrations." mailto: jc.velasco@csic.es.

José A. Zamora is Tenured Scientist at the Institute of Philosophy of the Spanish National Research Council of Madrid, Spain. He is MA in Philosophy, University of Granada, Spain, and PhD in Philosophy, Westfälische Wilhelm-University of Münster, Germany. He has been Visiting Professor at various iberoamerican universities and carried out various postdoctoral research stays at universities in Germany (University of Münster, Berlin Free University, Technical University of Berlin). Among his books are Krise-Kritik-Erinnerung (Münster/Hamburg/Berlin, 1995), Th. W. Adorno: Pensar contra a barbárie (Madrid, 2004; São Leopoldo/Brazil 2008), Inmigrantes entre nosotros: ¿integración o participación? (Murcia, 2008), La crisis y sus víctimas (Murcia, 2014), and Ciudadanía, derechos sociales y el papel de las entidades del Tercer Sector y el Voluntariado (Madrid, 2014). mailto: joseantonio.zamora@cchs.csic.es.