

Presidential Rhetoric on Terrorism under Bush,
Obama and Trump

Gabriel Rubin

Presidential Rhetoric on Terrorism under Bush, Obama and Trump

Inflating and Calibrating the Threat after 9/11

palgrave
macmillan

Gabriel Rubin
Montclair State University
Montclair, NJ, USA

ISBN 978-3-030-30166-8 ISBN 978-3-030-30167-5 (eBook)
<https://doi.org/10.1007/978-3-030-30167-5>

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s), under exclusive licence to Springer Nature Switzerland AG 2020

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use. The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, expressed or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Cover Pattern © John Rawsterne/patternhead.com

This Palgrave Pivot imprint is published by the registered company Springer Nature Switzerland AG.

The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I have many people to thank for this truly collaborative project. Foremost is Benjamin H. Friedman, of Defense Priorities, who helped conceive of it. We presented early versions of this project under the title “What Happened to the Terror Threat?” in January 2012 at the Southern Political Science Association annual meeting in New Orleans and ten months later in Boston at the Northeastern Political Science Association annual meeting. The original idea was to compare the oft-described-as incendiary rhetoric of George W. Bush regarding the terror threat to that of Barack Obama. The methodology of the study, what themes to explore, and how to gather data were all set with Ben Friedman in those early studies. Friedman is the sort of irreverent, fun-loving, and highly intelligent individual who drew me to academics in the first place.

I have continued with the project since those first presentations in 2012, now having gathered speech data from September 2001 to February 2019 on Presidents George W. Bush, Barack Obama, and Donald Trump. This data could not have been gathered without the great help of my many research assistants including Greg Sevret, Brianna Campoverde, David Lurin, Misha Hajj, and Juliana Corbosiero.

I would like to thank the Law and Society Association, the Southern Political Science Association, and the Northeastern Political Science Association for the insightful input I received at their conferences. It wasn’t very long ago that I thought that going to academic conferences was a waste of time, but I have since re-learned the value of sharing scholarship with a community of academics and making connections with other intellectuals. I met with a positive and highly competent Palgrave representative at the Eastern Sociological Society's annual meeting who led me to the uplifting publishing team at Palgrave. I wish to thank my supportive and constructive editor Michelle Chen for her work on this project as well as her belief in its virtue. The comments from anonymous peer reviewers greatly improved the final product in many big and small ways. I thank the anonymous reviewers for their insights, support of the project and careful, considered feedback.

For their input on my scholarship and for their friendship, I have many people to thank in the circle of nerds: Ariel Ira Ahram, Jeremy Menchik, Ben Grunwald, Jonathan "T" Rubin, Arnaud Kurze, Jason Williams, Chris Salvatore, Chris Donoghue, Sangeeta Parashar, Teresa Fiore, Lucy McDiarmid, Leslie Wilson, Yasemin Besen-Cassino, Hugh Curnutt, Toni Pole, Stephen Ruszczuk, Ben Nienass, Daniela Peterka-Benton, Tarika Daftary-Kapur, Elenice DeSouza Oliveira, and Tony Spanakos.

Thanks also to Talya Rubin for always inquiring about my book and what it's called. To Shai Rubin for keeping my storytelling chops tight with his nightly story requests. To Lev Rubin for his mirth and love of animals. To my parents, Yehudit and Shimon Rubin, for their kindness and levity. To my brothers, Ben and T, for the examples they set and the jokes they make about me. And to Ariel for sharing this life with me.

CONTENTS

1	Inflating the Terror Threat Since 2001	1
2	George W. Bush: Policy Selling and Agenda-Setting After 9/11	55
3	Barack Obama: From an End to Terror to Drone Wars and ISIS	81
4	Donald Trump, Twitter, and Islamophobia: The End of Dignity in Presidential Rhetoric About Terrorism	105
5	How Can Presidents Properly Calibrate the Terror Threat?	129
	Index	141

LIST OF FIGURES

Fig. 1.1	Frequency of formal presidential speeches about terrorism post 9/11	50
Fig. 2.1	Bush and the rhetoric of evil, frequency of speeches with use of the words “evil,” “enemies,” and “killers” by George W. Bush when defining terrorism	66
Fig. 2.2	George W. Bush terrorism speeches depicting the threat as a worldwide conspiracy	71
Fig. 2.3	George W. Bush terrorism speeches emphasizing that conflict with terrorists will be a long war	72
Fig. 2.4	Selling the Iraq War, what George W. Bush called terrorists	73
Fig. 2.5	Number of speeches where Bush linked terrorism to Iraq, Afghanistan, Middle East, and other conflicts	77
Fig. 2.6	George W. Bush on the resilience of the terrorist enemy, frequency and percentage of total terrorism speeches	78
Fig. 3.1	Barack Obama frequency of terrorism speeches linking the threat to the following countries	86
Fig. 3.2	George W. Bush vs. Barack Obama on the theme of a worldwide conspiracy of terrorists, number of terrorism-related speeches with and without this theme	88
Fig. 3.3	George W. Bush vs. Barack Obama on the theme of terrorism linked to WMD, number of speeches that do and do not contain theme	89
Fig. 3.4	George W. Bush vs. Barack Obama on the theme of terrorism as an existential threat, speech frequency	90
Fig. 3.5	George W. bush and Barack Obama on the theme that terror war is necessary (freq. of speeches)	90

Fig. 3.6	George W. Bush vs. Barack Obama on the theme of the terror threat having diminished (percentage of terrorism-related speeches containing theme)	91
Fig. 3.7	George W. Bush vs. Barack Obama on the theme of the terror threat entailing a long war (speech frequency)	91
Fig. 4.1	Frequency of formal presidential speeches about terrorism post 9/11	124
Fig. 4.2	Frequency of presidential formal speeches linking terrorism to a worldwide conspiracy post-9/11	124
Fig. 4.3	Frequency and percentage of presidential speeches emphasizing theme of resilience of terrorists	125
Fig. 4.4	Frequency and percentage of presidential speeches emphasizing terror war is unlike any other	125
Fig. 5.1	George W. Bush, Obama, and Trump on the theme that the terror threat is diminished (freq of terrorism speeches depicting theme)	130

LIST OF TABLES

Table 2.1	George W. Bush’s frequency of formal terrorism speeches linking terrorism to weapons of mass destruction and to an existential threat to America like the Nazis or Soviet Union	63
Table 2.2	Frequency of Bush terrorism speeches stating war on terror is necessary and referring to violent jihad against America	76
Table 3.1	Barack Obama, frequency and percentage of terms used when referring to terrorists in his terrorism-related speeches	85
Table 4.1	George W. Bush, Obama, and Trump on speeches linking the terror threat to other issues or conflicts	116
Table 4.2	Frequency and percentage of presidential terrorism speeches that emphasize tolerance toward Muslims	118