

SpringerBriefs in Criminology

SpringerBriefs in Criminology present concise summaries of cutting edge research across the fields of Criminology and Criminal Justice. It publishes small but impactful volumes of between 50-125 pages, with a clearly defined focus. The series covers a broad range of Criminology research from experimental design and methods, to brief reports and regional studies, to policy-related applications.

The scope of the series spans the whole field of Criminology and Criminal Justice, with an aim to be on the leading edge and continue to advance research. The series will be international and cross-disciplinary, including a broad array of topics, including juvenile delinquency, policing, crime prevention, terrorism research, crime and place, quantitative methods, experimental research in criminology, research design and analysis, forensic science, crime prevention, victimology, criminal justice systems, psychology of law, and explanations for criminal behavior. SpringerBriefs in Criminology will be of interest to a broad range of researchers and practitioners working in Criminology and Criminal Justice Research and in related academic fields such as Sociology, Psychology, Public Health, Economics and Political Science.

More information about this series at <http://www.springer.com/series/10159>

Robert McLean • Grace Robinson
James A. Densley

County Lines

Criminal Networks and Evolving Drug
Markets in Britain

 Springer

Robert McLean
Northumbria University
Newcastle, UK

Grace Robinson
Criminology
Blackpool and the Fylde College
Lancashire, UK

James A. Densley
Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice
Education Center
Metropolitan State University
Brooklyn Park, MN, USA

ISSN 2192-8533

ISSN 2192-8541 (electronic)

SpringerBriefs in Criminology

ISBN 978-3-030-33361-4

ISBN 978-3-030-33362-1 (eBook)

<https://doi.org/10.1007/978-3-030-33362-1>

© The Author(s), under exclusive license to Springer Nature Switzerland AG 2020

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are reserved by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

The publisher, the authors, and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

This Springer imprint is published by the registered company Springer Nature Switzerland AG
The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

Acknowledgments

Robert McLean I would like to dedicate this book to the amazing family that God has blessed me with. First of all, to my wife Nicola, and to Chloe, Jack, Max, Clair, Faith and Jackson. Also, to my brothers – William, Graeme and Leonard – who I love dearly. To my dad, Allan, and of course, to my mum: there is not a day that passes that I don't think about you. I would like to also thank my extended family, Gabriella, Izzy, Leo, Kay and Ciera, Joanne, Karen, Annie, Chaz, Andy, Meme, and so on, including all my aunts and uncles: and Uncle S, who has always been more than an uncle to me. I would also like to thank my esteemed colleagues Simon Harding, James Densley, Ross Deuchar and Chris Holligan, all of whom have been so helpful in guiding my career so far. Last of all a solo shout out to Jerry fae Pollok (Sorry I missed you in the first book mate, lol).

Grace Robinson I would like to dedicate this book to the many young people whom gave up their time and allowed me to delve deep into the darkest corners of their lives. Without their honest accounts, this book would not have been possible. I would also like to thank my inspiring collaborators, Robert McLean and James Densley for making our projects so enjoyable; and my PhD supervisors, Andrew Millie and Eleanor Peters, for their invaluable guidance over the past few years. Lastly, of course, my thanks are extended to my family – Mike, Diane and Daniel Robinson, Luke Fox, Anna Rothery and Mary Leigh – for their unrelenting love, support and patience.

James A. Densley First and foremost, thank you to my wonderful collaborators and co-authors Robert and Grace, not least for the expert fieldwork that made this book possible, and thanks to everyone who shared their stories with them. Ross Deuchar, Simon Harding, Michelle Storrod, and friends in the Eurogang network, thank you for helping to shape my perspective on gangs, crime, and County Lines throughout the years. Thanks to my colleagues at Metropolitan State University and to Jillian Peterson at The Violence Project for their ongoing support. And most importantly, eternal gratitude to my beautiful family—my wife Emily and children Alex and Andrew—for their love, encouragement, and patience. This book is dedicated to them.

Contents

1	Introduction	1
	Gangs and Organized Crime	2
	County Lines	3
	Illicit Drugs Market	4
	Contribution of the Book	5
	Preview of the Book	7
	References	8
 Part I Walking the Lines
2	A Tale of Two Research Sites	13
	Glasgow and West Scotland	14
	Crime and Drug Harms	15
	Data Sources and Methods	16
	Merseyside	19
	Crime and Drug Harms	21
	Data Sources and Methods	22
	Chapter Summary	23
	References	24
3	County Lines in Context	27
	Child Criminal Exploitation	27
	County Lines	31
	Cuckooing	32
	Chapter Summary	34
	References	35
 Part II Between the Lines
4	Illicit Drug Markets Today	39
	The Rise of the Modern Gangster	40
	Cornering an Evolving Market	40

Changing Course. 44

Adopting a Professional Ethos 45

 “I’m Professional, Not a Thug” 46

Evolution Continues 48

Chapter Summary 50

References. 51

5 Working County Lines 53

 Location, Location, Location 54

 Setting Up Shop 57

 Networking 57

 Cuckooing, Incentives, Advertising, and Dealing. 59

 Transportation and Trafficking 61

 Extra-legal Governance. 63

 Chapter Summary 67

 References. 67

6 Negotiating the Victim/Offender Nexus 69

 Dealers or Victims?. 70

 Earning a Wage 70

 Working off Debts. 73

 Wall of Silence 74

 Organised Criminals or Getting by? 74

 Chapter Summary 78

 References. 79

Part III Draw the Line

7 Conclusion 83

 Discussion of Findings 84

 Research Limitations 86

 Implications for Policy and Research 87

 References. 89

Index. 91

About the Authors

Robert McLean is a criminal justice lecturer at the University of the West of Scotland. As well as making a number of media appearances, McLean has also published widely on the topics of gang/group offending, (dis)organised crime, drug harms, and criminal desistance.

Grace Robinson is Programme Leader of Criminology at Blackpool and the Fylde College. Robinson has recently completed a PhD researching gangs, Child Criminal Exploitation and County Lines, at Edge Hill University.

James A. Densley is Professor of Criminal Justice at Metropolitan State University and co-founder of The Violence Project. He has received global media attention for his work on street gangs, criminal networks, violence, and policing. Densley is the author of two prior books, including How Gangs Work (Palgrave Macmillan, 2013), 40 refereed articles in leading social science journals, and over 50 book chapters, essays, and other non-refereed works. He earned his DPhil in sociology from the University of Oxford.