

Tactics and Procurement in the Habsburg Military,
1866–1918

John A. Dredger

Tactics and Procurement in the Habsburg Military,
1866–1918

Offensive Spending

palgrave
macmillan

John A. Dredger
Assumption Academy
Walton, KY
USA

ISBN 978-3-319-57677-0 ISBN 978-3-319-57678-7 (eBook)
DOI 10.1007/978-3-319-57678-7

Library of Congress Control Number: 2017939559

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s) 2017

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Cover credit: Group photograph: © The Protected Art Archive/Alamy Stock Photo.
Coin: © Christoph Rueegg/Alamy Stock Photo.

Printed on acid-free paper

This Palgrave Macmillan imprint is published by Springer Nature
The registered company is Springer International Publishing AG
The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

To my wife Vanessa

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Many individuals deserve my gratitude for the various ways in which they have made this book possible. I must first thank the late Mr Mark Chapman for funding this present work and my 4 years as a full-time student at Kansas State University. Without his generosity through the Chapman Fellowship, my writing may never have been completed. I must also thank the Kansas State University History Department for awarding me the Colonel Peter Cullen Military History Fellowship, which supported my research trip to Vienna. I am also grateful to my recently departed father, Oliver Dredger, who generously helped me financially with my Viennese sojourn.

The members of my committee proved of inestimable value during my writing. All showed unending willingness to provide answers covering the spectrum of academic queries. Professor Brent Maner constantly offered helpful criticism, while trying to keep me on track as I wandered off into the details. Similarly, Professor David Stone repeatedly guided me to see the forest when I was lost in the trees. Professor Marsha Frey's continually positive and amazingly quick feedback encouraged me during the arduous writing and revising process. Professor Derek Hillard inspired me to improve my German skills, a most useful and necessary ability as I learned in Vienna while poring over the cryptic scribbles of Austro-Hungarian officers.

In Vienna, the staff at the Kriegsarchiv performed the impossible by supplying me with inaccessible boxes during remodeling of the archive holdings. I must especially thank the late Dr Jerko, who offered his help when I was lost and led me to sources that I had no idea existed. In addition, I wish to thank Miha Simac for befriending me and alleviating the tedium of leafing through seemingly endless documents. My thanks must also go to my brother William Dredger, my friend Patrick Maguire, and my niece Pauline Dredger for always expressing interest in my writing while reading, discussing, and commenting on each chapter.

My gratitude would not be complete without an immense thank-you to my wife Vanessa and our children Margaret, Kathleen, Patricia, Cecilia, Anthony, Elizabeth, and Raymond. Vanessa endured the long hours of loneliness and boredom that a writer's spouse must tolerate in addition to keeping the household in a state of relative quiet for me to work. Supporting me with words of encouragement, while putting up with my fits of frustration, she continued to supply me with the consolation of her presence and her mouth-watering brownies. Our children suffered through days, weeks, and months of Daddy being too busy to spend much time with them as they often heard such words as "Not right now" and "Just wait until I'm done with this chapter."

Finally, I must thank others no longer here, especially Brother Sidonius Lepsi, OCSC, for the inspiration of his immense historical knowledge, Mr Eugene Dinet, for his friendship and linguistic skills, and my mother, Elizabeth Dredger, who helped me more than anyone could know.

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
2	The Problems of 1866: Tactics, Weapons, and Money	13
3	1866–1876: First Steps Toward Progress	49
4	Adapting in Bosnia-Hercegovina	99
5	From Progress to Reversion	133
6	Financial Shock: Conradian Tactics and Wasteful Spending	175
7	The Catastrophe of the Offensive	235
8	Conclusion	281
	Bibliography	289
	Index	299