

Reassessing the Hitchcock Touch

Wieland Schwanebeck
Editor

Reassessing the Hitchcock Touch

Industry, Collaboration, and Filmmaking

palgrave
macmillan

Editor

Wieland Schwanebeck
Faculty of Linguistics, Literature and Cultural Studies
TU Dresden
Dresden, Saxony, Germany

ISBN 978-3-319-60007-9 ISBN 978-3-319-60008-6 (eBook)
DOI 10.1007/978-3-319-60008-6

Library of Congress Control Number: 2017944169

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s) 2017

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Printed on acid-free paper

This Palgrave Macmillan imprint is published by Springer Nature
The registered company is Springer International Publishing AG
The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Sabotaging 'Hitchcock', the project which culminated in the publication of this book, would not have been possible without the generous support of the Fritz Thyssen Foundation and the British Council. Moreover, the preparation of the book was supported by Technische Universität Dresden, School of Humanities and Social Sciences (with funds provided by the Excellence Initiative of the German Federal and State Governments).

I am grateful to my friends and colleagues at TU Dresden who took every effort to support the 2014 Hitchcock conference which sparked this publication. This includes Stefan Horlacher, Bettina Jansen, and Andrea Kiel. A special note of gratitude must go out to Mirjam Frotscher and Ulrike Kohn, from whose expertise this book has benefited immensely. I am also very much indebted to Shaun Vigil and Glenn Ramirez at Palgrave Macmillan for their editorial advice.

My biggest note of gratitude, however, goes out to Laura Park, who worked wonders with the manuscript and provided an astonishing amount of helpful suggestions, all of which proved invaluable. Any formal or stylistic fault still to be found in the book is entirely my own.

Part II The Paratextual Environment

- 7 “If I Won’t Be Myself, Who Will?” The Making of a
Star Persona in Alfred Hitchcock Presents and *The Alfred
Hitchcock Hour* 113
Nadine Seligmann
- 8 Alfred Hitchcock: Cinematic Seducer
Frenzy and the Seduction Theory of Film 137
Marcus Stiglegger
- 9 The Visual Peak: Saul Bass as Hitchcock’s ‘Pictorial
Consultant’ 153
Stefan Jung
- 10 Alfred Hitchcock’s Three Investigators Series 171
H. Alan Pickrell

Part III Beyond Hitchcock

- 11 Jack of All Trades: Alfred Hitchcock’s Apprenticeship in Neubabelsberg, 1924/25 185
Andy Räder
- 12 Hitchcock—Powell—Ford 199
Charles Barr
- 13 Uncommon Dangers: Alfred Hitchcock and the Literary Contexts of the British Spy Thriller 221
Alan George Burton
- 14 Jaws: Directed by Alfred Hitchcock 241
Wieland Schwanebeck
- Filmography 259
- Index 265

EDITOR AND CONTRIBUTORS

About the Editor

Wieland Schwanebeck is a Junior Lecturer in the Institute of English and American Studies at TU Dresden (Germany). His fields of interest include impostor characters, Gender and Masculinity Studies, British Film History, and Adaptation Studies. In 2013, he completed his Ph.D. thesis on the notion of adaptable masculinity in Patricia Highsmith's Ripley novels. His publications include a study of the German Campus Novel (2012), two volumes on impostors and con men (2014), and the Metzler Handbook of Masculinity Studies (co-edited with Stefan Horlacher and Bettina Jansen, 2016).

Contributors

Charles Barr taught for many years at the University of East Anglia, helping to develop one of the pioneer UK programs in Film Studies; he has since held Research Fellow posts in the USA and Ireland, and then, again, in England. Much of his writing has been on British cinema, including books on Ealing Studios (1998) and on English Hitchcock (1999). He also wrote on Hitchcock's Vertigo for the BFI/Palgrave Film Classics series (2012), and serves on the Editorial Board of the US-based Hitchcock Annual.

Claudia Bullerjahn is a Professor of Systematic Musicology and Cultures of Music at Justus Liebig University Giessen (Germany). Her research interests include different forms and effects of music in the media (including film, video, computer games, advertising, and ringtones), and the psychology of young music learners and young composers. Her publications include articles in Psychomusicology, Frontiers of Psychology, Yearbook of the German Society for Music Psychology (“Musikpsychologie”, also co-editor since 2005), a monograph (Grundlagen der Wirkung von Filmmusik, 2016), as well as various articles on film music and the music of the silent-film era.

Alan George Burton is a Visiting Fellow in the Department of History of Art and Film, University of Leicester (UK). He is currently the recipient of a research grant from The Austrian Science Fund (FWF) to study British spy fiction. He has written widely on British cinema and is the co-author of The Cinema of Basil Dearden and Michael Relph (with Tim O’Sullivan, 2009) and The Historical Dictionary of British Cinema (with Steve Chibnall, 2013), and is the author of The Historical Dictionary of British Spy Fiction (2016). He is currently completing the manuscript of Looking-Glass Wars: The British Spy Screen since 1960 for publication in 2018.

Ralf Heiner Heinke is a doctoral candidate at the Institute of Art History and Musicology at TU Dresden (Germany) and worked as a freelance filmmaker and gaffer/best boy in the film industry. He studied at Munich University for Television and Film (Michaela Krützen/Axel Block) and TU Dresden (Jürgen Müller). His research explores the affinity and interplay between pictorial representation in film history and the history of the fine arts and photography.

Stefan Jung has worked as an editor for various film-related publications, including (online) magazines and encyclopedias. He has been involved in various international film festivals since 2006, and he has published articles about film history and theory (including the notions of heterotopia and time). His on-going research interest in genre and authorship is reflected in his work on Neo(n) Noir, the Neo Western, and directors such as Steven Spielberg, Hayao Miyazaki, and Joe Dante (Spielplatz der Anarchie, co-edited with Michael Flintrop and Heiko Nemitz, 2014). He studied and worked at the Universities of Regensburg and Leipzig between 2007 and 2013.

Hans-Ulrich Mohr is Emeritus Professor of American Literature at TU Dresden (Germany), where he taught from 1993 to 2010. He studied at the FU Berlin and at the University of Leeds (UK) and received his doctoral degree from the University of Konstanz. His ‘Habilitation’ took place at the University of Bielefeld, where he subsequently taught as a Professor. He has also taught at the universities of Tübingen, Siegen, Bayreuth, and Paderborn. His research focuses on the functional history of English and American literature after 1700, Gothicism, postmodernism, aesthetics, and mass media, including film.

Eckhard Pabst is a Research Assistant working in the field of film studies at the University of Kiel (Germany). As the manager of the Kommunales Kino in Kiel he is also responsible for the film program of the city’s oldest arthouse cinema and its continued efforts to promote documentaries, film history, and world cinema. He has published widely on the topics of horror film, production design, and directors such as Steven Spielberg, James Cameron, and David Lynch.

H. Alan Pickrell is a Professor Emeritus of Speech and Theatre from Emory & Henry College where he taught for thirty-six years. As well as speech and theatre, he taught English, Great Books, Western Tradition and Shakespeare; after retirement, he taught in Adult Continuing Education courses. He has authored many articles for various journals concerned with juvenile literature and has been a regular speaker at the Popular Culture Conference. In addition, he has directed and acted in more than 500 theatrical productions.

Andy Räder is a lecturer in Communication and Media Studies at the University of Rostock (Germany), whose research interests are in communication and media history, audience studies, cinema and television history. Previously, he was the curator of the permanent exhibition Dream Factory: 100 Years of Film in Babelsberg at Filmmuseum Potsdam, and is now working on his dissertation on GDR television of the 1960s and 1970s. He has co-edited a book on the transnational dimensions of GDR cinema (DEFA International, 2013).

Nadine Seligmann holds a Master’s degree in Aesthetics and Art History, Media Studies, and American Literature from the Brunswick University of Art and the Brunswick University of Technology (Germany). She completed her Ph.D. at the University of Art and Design Linz (Austria) in 2017, analyzing star performances (including the case of Alfred Hitchcock). Nadine Seligmann has worked in the film and arts sector for over a decade, including jobs in art gallery management, exhibitions, film programming, art-consulting, and film-funding. She has published numerous articles on film- and art-related topics in cultural magazines and catalogues.

Marcus Stiglegger is vice president and Professor of film and television at DEKRA Hochschule für Medien, Berlin. He has taught film studies at the universities of Mainz, Siegen, Mannheim, Regensburg, Ludwigsburg, and at Clemson University (USA), and has published various books on the aesthetics of film, film theory, and film history. His publications include a study of fascism and sexuality in film (Sadiconazista, 1999) and an analysis of cinematic mechanisms of seduction (Ritual & Verführung, 2005). He is the editor of the cultural magazine: Ikonen: and book series including ‘Medien/Kultur’, ‘Kultur + Kritik’ (Bertz+Fischer), and ‘Genre Diskurs’ (Springer VS).

Gesine Wegner is a Junior Lecturer and Research Assistant at the Chair of North American Literature at TU Dresden. She earned her M.A. from this university in 2014 after spending a year at Ohio State University. Her research focuses on representations of femininity, disability, non-normative sexuality, and trauma in contemporary American (graphic) literature, film, and television. She has previously published an article on the depiction of queerness and mental illness in Hitchcock’s Rebecca and is currently working on her Ph.D. thesis, which analyzes visual negotiations of disability and trauma in multi-modal American literature.

LIST OF FIGURES

Fig. 2.1	The sheet music of Miss Up-To-Date (1929), courtesy of Bill Douglas Cinema Museum, University of Exeter	27
Fig. 2.2	Alfred Hitchcock (with lead actress Anny Ondra and a camera man behind the small window of a camera booth) listening through earphones while dialogue is recorded on the set of Blackmail	35
Fig. 3.1	The prison bars of The Ghost That Never Returns as echoed in The 39 Steps	45
Fig. 3.2	Inside Scottie's apartment (Vertigo)	47
Fig. 3.3	Dutch angles highlight the climactic 'moment of truth' (The 39 Steps)	48
Fig. 3.4	Roddy scans the room (Downhill)	50
Fig. 3.5	Downhill prefigures Vertigo	51
Fig. 4.1	The plot structure of The Man Who Knew Too Much	66
Fig. 4.2	The plot structure of Psycho	70
Fig. 4.3	The protagonist and the antagonist (Psycho)	72
Fig. 5.1	Mrs. Danvers looking down on Mrs. de Winter (Rebecca)	83
Fig. 5.2	Countess Marya Zaleska and her blonde victim (Dracula's Daughter) (left)—Mrs. Danvers right before her murder attempt (Rebecca) (right)	84
Fig. 5.3	Judy Flaquer in contrast with Mrs. Keane and Mrs. Horfield (The Paradine Case)	88
Fig. 5.4	Miriam's glasses (Strangers on a Train)	91
Fig. 6.1	Madeleine at Ernie's (Vertigo)	102
Fig. 6.2	Enlargement of shots #7 and #15 in the portrait gallery (Vertigo)	105

Fig. 6.3	Judy's transformation into Madeleine (Vertigo)	106
Fig. 7.1	Hitchcock's silhouette in the credits of Alfred Hitchcock Presents and The Alfred Hitchcock Hour	119
Fig. 7.2	Hitchcock presents himself as a gourmet (Conversation over a Corpse , #47)	127
Fig. 7.3	Hitchcock and his doppelgänger (One More Mile to Go , #67, 1957)	130
Fig. 8.1	Frenzy plays with perspective and identification	144
Fig. 8.2	Hitchcock's cameo (Frenzy)	147
Fig. 9.1	Vertigo 's opening title sequence	157
Fig. 9.2	North by Northwest 's opening title sequence	160
Fig. 9.3	James McNeill Whistler's Arrangement in Grey and Black No. 1 and the epilogue of Psycho	164
Fig. 9.4	Psycho 's title sequence	165
Fig. 12.1	The Manxman is echoed in Powell's The Edge of the World	200
Fig. 12.2	Self-reflexive cameos in Young and Innocent and The Volunteer	215
Fig. 12.3	Pivotal cameos in Marnie and Young Mr. Lincoln	216
Fig. 14.1	The fat auteur and the fat lady (Frenzy and Jaws)	248
Fig. 14.2	Triangular threats in The Lodger and Jaws	252