

Palgrave Studies in Theatre and Performance History

Series editor
Don B. Wilmeth
Emeritus Professor
Brown University
Providence, RI, USA

Palgrave Studies in Theatre and Performance History is a series devoted to the best of theatre/performance scholarship currently available, accessible and free of jargon. It strives to include a wide range of topics, from the more traditional to those performance forms that in recent years have helped broaden the understanding of what theatre as a category might include (from variety forms as diverse as the circus and burlesque to street buskers, stage magic, and musical theatre, among many others). Although historical, critical, or analytical studies are of special interest, more theoretical projects, if not the dominant thrust of a study but utilized as important underpinning or as an historiographical or analytical method of exploration, are also of interest. Textual studies of drama or other types of less traditional performance texts are also germane to the series if placed in their cultural, historical, social, or political and economic context. There is no geographical focus for this series and works of excellence of a diverse and international nature, including comparative studies, are sought.

More information about this series at <http://www.palgrave.com/series/14575>

Thomas A. Bogar

Thomas Hamblin and the Bowery Theatre

The New York Reign of “Blood and Thunder” Melodramas

palgrave
macmillan

Thomas A. Bogar
Independent Scholar
Silver Spring, MD, USA

Palgrave Studies in Theatre and Performance History
ISBN 978-3-319-68405-5 ISBN 978-3-319-68406-2 (eBook)
<https://doi.org/10.1007/978-3-319-68406-2>

Library of Congress Control Number: 2017960770

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s) 2018

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use. The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Cover illustration: Art Collection 3 / Alamy Stock Photo

Printed on acid-free paper

This Palgrave Macmillan imprint is published by Springer Nature
The registered company is Springer International Publishing AG
The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

*The Bow'ry, the Bow'ry!
They say such things,
And they do strange things
On the Bow'ry! The Bow'ry!
I'll never go there anymore!*

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In researching and writing Thomas Hamblin and the Bowery Theatre I have been aided tremendously by a small army of dedicated, tireless professionals. First among them is Bruce Abrams, the indefatigable New York City Municipal Archivist (now retired) and researcher, who located and exhumed lengthy documents long buried. As always, the staffs of various institutions have gone far out of their way to make a writer's life easier. These include the Newspapers and Periodicals Room of the Library of Congress; the Harvard Theatre Collection of Houghton Library, notably Curatorial Assistant Dale Stinchcomb; the Folger Shakespeare Library; the National Archives; the Filson Historical Society in Louisville, KY; the Billy Rose Theatre Collection, Performing Arts Division, New York Public Library; the Theatre Collection of the Free Library of Philadelphia; and the Library of the New York Historical Society. Tom Tryniski's Fulton History website and New York newspaper archive again proved an invaluable resource. I am also grateful to the anonymous peer reviewers whose insightful comments have made this a stronger work. I am deeply indebted to the entire staff at Palgrave Macmillan, especially Don Wilmeth, series editor, who by any definition is the consummate theatre historian. And as with my previous books, I could not have undergone this effort without the steadfast love and support of my wife, Gail, who doubtless learned more about Tom Hamblin than she ever wanted to know.

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
2	“He Is Yet Very Young, Both in Years and Practice”	9
3	“Let Those Who View This Sad Example Know/What Fate Attends the Broken Marriage Vow”	31
4	“We Girls Always Patronize the Bowery”	57
5	“Throw Not the Pearl of Shakespeare’s Wit Before the Swine of the Bowery Pit”	83
6	“Down with the British Bastard!”	111
7	“Circumstances Never Satisfactorily Explained”	133
8	“Marius Brooding over the Ruins of Carthage”	155
9	“The Public Have Only Themselves to Blame for the Reign of Melodrama”	177

10	“The Sanity of All the Parties Are at Par Value”	197
11	“We Are Not Dead Yet, Boys!”	217
12	“The Noblest Roman of Them All”	237
13	“Blessings and Benedictions”	259
	Works Cited	273
	Index	287

LIST OF FIGURES

Fig. 1.1	Thomas Souness Hamblin (Source: Library of Congress)	2
Fig. 2.1	Elizabeth Blanchard Hamblin (Source: Extra-Illustrated Ireland, HTC, Houghton Library, Harvard University)	12
Fig. 4.1	Josephine Clifton (Source: Extra-Illustrated Ireland, HTC, Houghton Library, Harvard University)	76
Fig. 5.1	Naomi Vincent (author's collection)	87
Fig. 8.1	Louisa Missouri Miller (Source: Extraillustrated Ireland, HTC, Houghton Library, Harvard University)	163
Fig. 8.2	Eliza Trewar Shaw (Source: Extra-illustrated Ireland, HTC, Houghton Library, Harvard University)	165