

SpringerBriefs in Political Science

SpringerBriefs present concise summaries of cutting-edge research and practical applications across a wide spectrum of fields. Featuring compact volumes of 50 to 125 pages, the series covers a range of content from professional to academic. Typical topics might include:

A timely report of state-of-the art analytical techniques

A bridge between new research results, as published in journal articles, and a contextual literature review

A snapshot of a hot or emerging topic

An in-depth case study or clinical example

A presentation of core concepts that students must understand in order to make independent contributions

SpringerBriefs in Political Science showcase emerging theory, empirical research, and practical application in political science, policy studies, political economy, public administration, political philosophy, international relations, and related fields, from a global author community.

SpringerBriefs are characterized by fast, global electronic dissemination, standard publishing contracts, standardized manuscript preparation and formatting guidelines, and expedited production schedules.

More information about this series at <http://www.springer.com/series/8871>

Betsy Jose

Norm Contestation

Insights into Non-Conformity with Armed Conflict Norms

 Springer

Betsy Jose
Department of Political Science
University of Colorado Denver
Denver, CO, USA

ISSN 2191-5466 ISSN 2191-5474 (electronic)
SpringerBriefs in Political Science
ISBN 978-3-319-69322-4 ISBN 978-3-319-69323-1 (eBook)
<https://doi.org/10.1007/978-3-319-69323-1>

Library of Congress Control Number: 2017958817

© The Author(s) 2018

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are reserved by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Printed on acid-free paper

This Springer imprint is published by Springer Nature
The registered company is Springer International Publishing AG
The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

*To Vega, Samara, and Raya
Who remind me of hope in the world
when I find myself enveloped by its despair*

Acknowledgments

My interest in the plight of civilians in armed conflict emanated from my efforts to understand the 1994 Rwandan genocide as it unfolded. While researching this and other genocides, I quickly discovered the widespread nature of atrocities committed against civilians, particularly during armed conflict. I also noticed that many of the actors who were accused of violating legally mandated civilian protections claimed to embrace those very protections. It seemed to me a puzzling paradox. This book aims to shed some light on this puzzle.

There were many people, institutions, and organizations that helped me along my search for answers. I am most thankful to Charli Carpenter for her generosity of time and expertise, to Louis Picard for his calmness and perspective, to Jordan Paust for helping me understand the nuances of international humanitarian law, to Taylor Seybolt who helped me sharpen my arguments and inspired new directions for research, and to Paul Nelson who consistently supported my efforts to be both a rigorous and ethical researcher.

I am also grateful to Alexander Downes, Janne Kleffner, Cian O’Driscoll, Stephanie Carvin, Christianna Nichols Leahy, Daryl Bockett, Nivien Saleh, Ravi Srinivas, Hans Stockton, Sigrid Streit, Wendy Lampart, Kristina Thomas, and Malliga Och for their invaluable feedback and support. I am particularly grateful to Lisa Hultman who organized seminars for me to talk about this research at Uppsala University and the Swedish National Defense College. I also want to thank Peter Wallensteen for generously providing me office space and other needed resources while I was visiting the Peace and Conflict Department at Uppsala University. I also have to thank the German Institute for Global and Area studies for its enormously useful support as I wrote this book. Christoph Stefes generously offered his time, expertise, good cheer, and support which were instrumental in completing this book.

I would also like to convey my gratitude to the respondents who participated in this study. I am deeply appreciative of their willingness to set aside time in order to help me gather data, even when it may have been emotionally difficult. I offer thanks to the refugees, the delegates of the International Committee for the Red Cross, and the various legal experts with whom I spoke. I am also thankful to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees in Botswana and the University of Botswana for their assistance with the logistical planning for one set of interviews and their welcoming hospitality. I am especially thankful to Sharif Olani, Vasco K. Simamezi, Changu Moyo, the Seleke family, Victoria Palm, and Shadreck Balisi.

The National Science Foundation funded my field research trips to Botswana and Switzerland. Without its grant, this research project would not be possible. I am thankful to the NSF for providing me with these opportunities.

The Graduate School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Pittsburgh offered me a great deal of support via the Dean's Fellowship and various departmental grants. The staff at the Qualitative Data Analysis Program was indispensable during the analytical phase of this project, namely Laurel Person, David Halpern, Elana Barkowitz, and Taichi Nakatani.

I would also like to acknowledge my indebtedness to the Center for International Studies at the University of St. Thomas and the Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado Denver. The faculty, staff, and students at both these marvelous institutions provided a stimulating and familial environment that helped me push forward.

Finally, I would like to thank my family. I would like to thank my parents who never wavered in their support of me and always made me feel like I could accomplish anything. I thank my sisters Biju and Bindu as well as Gopikiran Thota for graciously reading drafts, offering perceptive comments, and providing me strength.

Contents

1 Introduction: How Contestation Provides Insight into Normative Behavior	1
Materialist and Norm Diffusion Frameworks	4
Norm Contestation Framework	5
Methodology	6
Case Selection	6
Analytical Approach	7
The Civilian Immunity Norm	9
The Non-intervention Norm	11
General Findings	12
Civilian Immunity Norm Case Study	12
Non-intervention Norm Case Study	13
Contributions to the Literature	13
Overview of the Book	16
Chapter Two: Norm Contestation: A Theoretical Framework	16
Chapter Three: Contestation in the Civilian Immunity Norm	16
Chapter Four: Contestation in the Non-intervention Norm	16
Chapter Five: Conclusion: Lessons Drawn from Norm Contestation's Insights	17
Works Cited	17
2 Norm Contestation: A Theoretical Framework	21
Introduction	21
Norms	23
Logic of Consequences and the Logic of Appropriateness	23
Intersubjective Agreement	24
Social Norms and Legal Norms	25
Norm Ambiguity	27
Norms' Constitutive Effects	28
Materialist Framework	29
Norm Diffusion	29

Critiques of Materialist and Mainstream Constructivist Explanations . . .	30
Differentiating Norm Contestation from a Materialist Framework	32
Local Context and Norm Contestation	33
Interpretive Power and Norm Contestation.	36
Different Kinds of Contestation	40
Predictions of Norm Diffusion, Materialist, and Norm Contestation
Frameworks.	41
Conclusion	42
Works Cited.	43
3 Contestation in the Civilian Immunity Norm	47
Introduction.	47
Civilian Immunity Norm Prior to IHL Codification	48
Civilian Immunity Norm After IHL Codification.	49
A Historical Overview of the Norm’s Exceptions: Targetable Civilians .	52
Ambiguity	53
Materialist Reasons for Norm Violation	56
Norm Contestation, Logic of Appropriateness, Logic of Practicality,
and Logic of Contestedness	57
IHL Experts.	58
Former Belligerents	60
Age	61
Gender.	62
Threatening Behavior	63
Lack of Intersubjective Agreement.	64
Costs	65
Norm Contestation	68
Conclusion	70
Works Cited.	71
4 Contestation in the Non-intervention Norm.	75
Introduction.	75
Non-intervention Norm in Pre-charter Era	76
Non-intervention Norm in the Charter Era.	77
A Historical Overview of Humanitarian Intervention	78
Ambiguity	81
Materialist Reasons for Norm Violation	86
Norm Contestation, Logic of Appropriateness, Logic of Practicality,
and Logic of Contestedness	87
Russian Intervention in Crimea	88
Background.	88
Russian Humanitarian Justifications.	88
Lack of Intersubjective Agreement.	90
Costs	93
Norm Contestation	94
Conclusion	96
Works Cited.	97

5 Conclusion: Lessons Drawn from Norm Contestation’s Insights . . .	103
Summary	103
Theoretical Implications and Future Research	105
Policy Implications	107
Works Cited	109