

The Evolving American Presidency

Series Editors

Michael A. Genovese
Loyola Marymount University
Los Angeles, CA, USA

Todd Belt

Department of Political Science
University of Hawaii at Hilo
Hilo, HI, USA

This series is stimulated by the clash between the presidency as invented and the presidency as it has developed. Over time, the presidency has evolved and grown in power, expectations, responsibilities, and authority. Adding to the power of the presidency have been wars, crises, depressions, industrialization. The importance and power of the modern presidency makes understanding it so vital. How presidents resolve challenges and paradoxes of high expectations with limited constitutional resources is the central issue in modern governance and the central theme of this book series.

More information about this series at <http://www.palgrave.com/gp/series/14437>

Jeremy Kowalski
Editor

Reading Donald Trump

A Parallax View of the Campaign and Early Presidency

palgrave
macmillan

Editor

Jeremy Kowalski
Wilfrid Laurier University
Waterloo, ON, Canada

The Evolving American Presidency

ISBN 978-3-319-93178-4

ISBN 978-3-319-93179-1 (eBook)

<https://doi.org/10.1007/978-3-319-93179-1>

Library of Congress Control Number: 2018954356

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s) 2019

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use. The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Cover credit: Rick Partington / EyeEm

This Palgrave Macmillan imprint is published by the registered company Springer Nature Switzerland AG

The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

For all those that live in “shitholes” everywhere.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Completing an edited volume like the Reading Donald Trump: A Parallax View of the Campaign and Early Presidency is only possible because of the intellectual generosity and dedication of the contributors. Therefore, I would like to extend my sincerest appreciation to all of the very talented scholars who made this project a reality. I would also like to thank my wife, Alicia, and my son, Tristan, for their patience and support in the completion of this volume. Performing research and the writing process are enterprises of solitude that require the understanding of loved ones. Conversations that one has with colleagues about specific ideas and how these ideas should take shape are important components of any writing project. Therefore, I would like to thank Dr. Sabah Alnasseri for encouraging me to pursue this specific project during a trip to Baltimore, Maryland. In a similar vein, I would like to thank Dr. Michael Howard, Dr. Andrew McMurry, and Dr. Margaret Walton-Roberts for our lively discussions about “Trumpism” and “America’s Trump.” Finally, I would like to thank my editor at Palgrave Macmillan, Michelle Chen, and her editorial assistant, John Stegner, for their commitment to helping bring this project to fruition.

CONTENTS

1	Introduction: The Emergence of America's Trump and Trumpism	1
	Jeremy Kowalski
2	Gender and Identity in the Jigsaw Puzzle of Trump's Zero Sum Politics	11
	Margaret Walton-Roberts
3	Trumpolect: Donald Trump's Distinctive Discourse and Its Functions	33
	Andrew McMurry
4	Donald Trump's Wall of Whiteness	57
	William Major
5	Immigration Courts, Judicial Acceleration, and the Intensification of Immigration Enforcement in the First Year of the Trump Administration	83
	Austin Kocher
6	The Political Economy of Donald J. Trump	103
	Jasmin Habib and Michael Howard

7	The Discourse on Terrorism of Donald Trump	127
	Valentina Bartolucci
8	Inside the Trumpian Geopolitical Imagination	149
	Jeremy Kowalski
9	Trump and Nuclear Weapons	183
	Thomas MacManus
10	Coda: Political Crisis and the Reimagining of America	199
	Jeremy Kowalski
	Index	205

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Valentina Bartolucci is an academic and security expert who specializes in terrorism and counter-terrorism as well as in political Islam. Since 2010, she has held an adjunct lecturer position at the University of Pisa, Italy. She holds a Peace Studies degree from the University of Pisa, an MA in Conflict Management and Human Rights from the Sant' Anna School of Advanced Studies, and a PhD in International Relations from the University of Bradford, UK.

Jasmin Habib is associate professor in the Department of Political Science and Director of the Global Engagement Seminar Program at the University of Waterloo, Ontario. She is trained in International Peace Studies and Cultural Anthropology. Her books include Israel, Diaspora and the Routes of National Belonging (University of Toronto Press) and the edited collection, America Observed: on an International Anthropology of the US (co-edited with Virginia Dominguez). With funding from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada and in partnership with the Canadian Arab Institute, she is working on a sociocultural mapping of migration, settlement, and integration of Canadian Arabs—Muslim, Christian, and Jewish. She is Editor-in-Chief of Anthropologica, the journal of the Canadian Anthropology Society (CASCAS), and series editor of Cultural Spaces (University of Toronto Press).

Michael Howard is a distinguished Professor Emeritus in the Economics Department at the University of Waterloo and is a Fellow of the Balsillie School of International Affairs located in Waterloo, Canada.

Austin Kocher recently graduated with his PhD from the Department of Geography from the Ohio State University. His dissertation, Notice to Appear: Immigration Courts and the Legal Production of Illegalized Immigrants, focused on the legal geographies of the immigration court system, and its role as a pillar of the US deportation regime.

Jeremy Kowalski is a lecturer at Wilfrid Laurier University located in Waterloo, Ontario, Canada. He completed his PhD in the Geography Department at York University located in Toronto, Canada. His areas of specialization include critical geopolitics in general, and terrorism and political violence in particular. His previous book is entitled, Domestic Extremism and the Case of the Toronto 18 (Palgrave Macmillan, 2016).

Thomas MacManus is based at the International State Crime Initiative (www.statecrime.org) in the Department of Law at Queen Mary University of London, UK, where he researches and teaches state crime and state-corporate crime. He has a BA (Hons) in Law and Accounting (University of Limerick), an LLM (with distinction) in International Law (University of Westminster), and a PhD in Law and Criminology (King's College London). Thomas is admitted as an Attorney-at-Law, New York, and Solicitor, Ireland. He is an Editor-in-Chief of State Crime Journal and Joint Editor of Amicus Journal: Assisting Lawyers for Justice on Death Row. He is also a Director of the Colombia Caravana.

William Major is Professor of English at Hillyer College of the University of Hartford, where he teaches courses in American literature, writing, and environmental literature. He is author of Grounded Vision: New Agrarianism and the Academy (University of Alabama Press, 2011), as well as articles in Environmental Humanities, ISLE: Interdisciplinary Studies in Literature and Environment, Arizona Quarterly and other journals. His columns have appeared in The Chronicle of Higher Education, InsideHigherEd, and Liberal Education. He is currently working on a book exploring the relationship between literary study, teaching, and empathy.

Andrew McMurry holds a PhD, Indiana, and is an associate professor in the Department of English Language and Literature at the University of Waterloo. He has published widely on ecocriticism, systems theory, and environmental discourse. His books are Environmental Renaissance: Emerson, Thoreau and the System of Nature and Entertaining Futility: Despair and Hope in the Age of Climate Change.

Margaret Walton-Roberts is a professor at Wilfrid Laurier University and the School of International Policy and Governance at the Balsillie School of International Affairs, Waterloo, Canada. She is a human geographer with research interests in gender and migration, transnational networks, and immigrant settlement in small- and medium-sized cities. She has been awarded several external grants for her research and has published over 25 book chapters and more than 37 journal articles. Her latest co-edited book Diasporas, Development and Governance is published by Springer in their Global Migration Series.