

A black and white satellite image of a hurricane in the South Pacific. The hurricane is a large, circular storm system with a distinct eye in the center. The clouds are dense and spiral inward from the outer edges. The surrounding ocean surface is visible, showing some wave patterns and smaller cloud formations.

Parte Seconda

Aria

Immagine di un uragano nel Pacifico del sud