Educational Linguistics is dedicated to innovative studies of language use and language learning. The series is based on the idea that there is a need for studies that break barriers. Accordingly, it provides a space for research that crosses traditional disciplinary, theoretical, and/or methodological boundaries in ways that advance knowledge about language (in) education. The series focuses on critical and contextualized work that offers alternatives to current approaches as well as practical, substantive ways forward. Contributions explore the dynamic and multi-layered nature of theory-practice relationships, creative applications of linguistic and symbolic resources, individual and societal considerations, and diverse social spaces related to language learning.

The series publishes in-depth studies of educational innovation in contexts throughout the world: issues of linguistic equity and diversity; educational language policy; revalorization of indigenous languages; socially responsible (additional) language teaching; language assessment; first- and additional language literacy; language teacher education; language development and socialization in non-traditional settings; the integration of language across academic subjects; language and technology; and other relevant topics.

The Educational Linguistics series invites authors to contact the general editor with suggestions and/or proposals for new monographs or edited volumes. For more information, please contact the publishing editor: Jolanda Voogd, Associate Publishing Editor, Springer, Van Godewijkstraat 30, 3300 AA Dordrecht, The Netherlands.

Acknowledgement

The editors would like to thank the speakers and audiences at the two events that sparked the creation of this volume: the Applied Generative Second Language Acquisition Workshop held in York in 2010, and the colloquium Half a century on: What relevance does generative SLA have for language teaching? held at AAAL 2011 in Chicago. We are grateful for the invaluable feedback from colleagues who acted as reviewers for each chapter and also for the helpful comments on the whole manuscript from an anonymous reviewer. We would particularly like to thank Roumyana Slabakova for her support and encouragement of our pursuit of this project. Finally, we thank the editors at Springer who have been continuously helpful and responsive during the entire process.
