Series Editors:

Suzanne Majhanovich, University of Western Ontario, Canada

Scope:

The WCCES is an international organization of comparative education societies worldwide and is an NGO in consultative partnership with UNESCO. The WCCES was created in 1970 to advance the field of comparative education. Members usually meet every three years for a World Congress in which scholars, researchers, and administrators interact with colleagues and counterparts from around the globe on international issues of education.

The WCCES also promotes research in various countries. Foci include theory and methods in comparative education, gender discourses in education, teacher education, education for peace and justice, education in post-conflict countries, language of instruction issues, Education for All. Such topics are usually represented in thematic groups organized for the World Congresses. Besides organizing the World Congresses, the WCCES has a section in CERCular, the newsletter of the Comparative Education Research Centre at the University of Hong Kong, to keep individual societies and their members abreast of activities around the world.

The WCCES comprehensive web site is <http://www.wcces.com>

As a result of these efforts under the auspices of the global organization, WCCES and its member societies have become better organized and identified in terms of research and other scholarly activities. They are also more effective in viewing problems and applying skills from different perspectives, and in disseminating information. A major objective is advancement of education for international understanding in the interests of peace, intercultural cooperation, observance of human rights and mutual respect among peoples.

The WCCES Series was established to provide for the broader dissemination of discourses between scholars in its member societies. Representing as it does Societies and their members from all continents, the organization provides a special forum for the discussion of issues of interest and concern among comparativists and those working in international education. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This book has been made possible through the collective effort and support of a great many people, and we would like to express our gratitude to them. All chapters in this volume have their origins in paper presentations at the XV Comparative Education World Congress celebrated in Buenos Aires, Argentina, on the 24-28 June of 2013. Therefore we are indebted to the World Council of Comparative Education Societies (WCCES), and more specifically to the Sociedad Argentina de Estudios Comparados en Educación (SAECE), whose President Norberto Fernández Lamarra is also Vice-President of the WCCES. The congress was hosted by the School of Economics at the Buenos Aires University. We would like to express our gratitude to all those who helped organize and who contributed to the congress, especially congress coordinator Cristian Pérez and the regional coordinator for thematic strand 8 (Voice and Language), Luis Enrique Lopez-Hurtado.

We are particularly grateful to the chapter authors, who come from a wide range of professional specializations and geographic locations, and who provide a variety of perspectives that, collectively, create a rich and complex international dialogue. Given the overall congress theme of New Times, New Voices, we felt it was particularly important to bring a diversity of voices together in this collection, and we would like to thank the authors not only for their willingness to participate and the value of their contribution, but for their diligence in incorporating editorial and reviewer comments into subsequent drafts, and for their patience and good humor throughout this process.

We would like to acknowledge as well the external reviewers: Igone Arteagoitia, Zubeida Desai, Daniel Gakunga, Alla Korzh, Suzanne Majhanovich, Julie McLaughlin, and Lynette Shultz. It is important to recognize that the time and expertise invested in reviewing chapter drafts is completely voluntary and not remunerated in any way, so that the contribution of these colleagues was motivated exclusively by a spirit of collaboration and good will. The reviewers' comments were of immense value in strengthening the chapters, and the chapter authors worked hard to incorporate the valuable feedback. We would also like to thank Michel Lokhorst, publishing director of Sense, as well as production coordinator Jolanda Karada, Peter de Liefde and Robert van Gameren, and Comparative and International Education series editors Suzanne Majhanovich and Allan Pitman.

Finally, on a more personal note, Diane wishes to thank John Napier for his tireless support of this and all projects.
