

Islamist Terrorism and Militancy in Indonesia

Kumar Ramakrishna

Islamist Terrorism and Militancy in Indonesia

The Power of the Manichean Mindset

 Springer

Kumar Ramakrishna
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies,
Nanyang Technological University
Singapore, Singapore

ISBN 978-981-287-193-0 ISBN 978-981-287-194-7 (eBook)
DOI 10.1007/978-981-287-194-7
Springer Singapore Heidelberg New York Dordrecht London

Library of Congress Control Number: 2014953840

© Springer Science+Business Media Singapore 2015

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are reserved by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed. Exempted from this legal reservation are brief excerpts in connection with reviews or scholarly analysis or material supplied specifically for the purpose of being entered and executed on a computer system, for exclusive use by the purchaser of the work. Duplication of this publication or parts thereof is permitted only under the provisions of the Copyright Law of the Publisher's location, in its current version, and permission for use must always be obtained from Springer. Permissions for use may be obtained through RightsLink at the Copyright Clearance Center. Violations are liable to prosecution under the respective Copyright Law.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

While the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication, neither the authors nor the editors nor the publisher can accept any legal responsibility for any errors or omissions that may be made. The publisher makes no warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein.

Printed on acid-free paper

Springer is part of Springer Science+Business Media (www.springer.com)

Acknowledgements

The current project has benefited a great deal from the insights of Tito Karnavian, Noor Huda Ismail, Taufik Andrie, Dina Afrianty, Jamhari Makruf, Al Chaidar, Nasir Abbas, Kamarulnizam Abdullah, and Rommel Banlaoi. I would also like to especially thank Tito for using his good offices to enable me to have face-to-face discussions with both incarcerated and former Indonesian militants. I must also declare an intellectual debt to Sidney Jones, Greg Fealy, Tony Bubalo, Bilveer Singh, Mark Woodward and Greg Barton, whose ideas have long had a significant influence on my thinking about Southeast Asian militancy and terrorism. Further afield, the wisdom and expertise of Bruce Hoffman, Ilan Mizrahi, Paul J. Smith, John Alderdice, Marc Sageman, Stuart Croft, Joshua Sinai, Peter Neumann, Alex Schmid, John Horgan, David Cook, Quintan Wiktorowicz and Andrew Silke continue to engage my attention. Jan Vasbinder, who until recently headed Nanyang Technological University's Complexity Studies Program, has been a most encouraging colleague, ever willing to reach out to colleagues beyond the hard sciences. Within the Center of Excellence for National Security (CENS), as well as the S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) of which the Centre is a constituent unit, the following colleagues past and present kindly read the manuscript in whole or in part and offered constructive comments and criticisms: Amitav Acharya, Muhammad Haniff Hassan, Sulastri Osman, Greg Dalziel, Yeap Su Yin, Damien Cheong, and Khong Yuen Foong. Mark Dechesne, Rick O'Gorman and Scott Atran offered many helpful suggestions. Eliane Coates provided copyediting support. I would like to thank Sidney Jones and Joost Hilterman of the International Crisis Group (ICG) for kind permission to make extensive use of material from the ICG Asia Report 204 on International Jihadism: Small Groups, Big Plans (2011) in Chap. 6.

Initial drafts of this study were written in 2011 while I was a Visiting Scholar at the Center for International Security Studies in the University of Sydney, where then-Director Alan Dupont and university colleagues Vivian Puccini-Scuderi, Tom Wilkins, Justin Hastings, and Yuan Jing-Dong were a source of great comradeship and intellectual stimulation. In addition, Shanaka Jayasekara, Peter Anderson and Julian Droogan at Macquarie University's Center for Policing, Intelligence and Counter-Terrorism proved to be great sources of wit and insight as well. At the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Jakarta, Rizal Sukma and Lina Alexandra proved to be great interlocutors. I must also extend my gratitude to RSIS Dean Barry Desker and Chairman Eddie Teo, for their valuable support for this project. I also acknowledge past and present CENS and RSIS colleagues, in particular Norman Vasu, Yvonne Lee, Damien Cheong, Rohan Gunaratna, Bernard Loo, Adrian Kuah and Peter Ee, for their comradeship down the years.

I must also acknowledge my continuing appreciation to Singapore government colleagues who have supported me throughout my tenure as CENS Head: Peter Ho, Benny Lim, Lee Ark Boon, Kok Ping Soon, Yeong Gah Hou, Patrick Nathan and Sean Lee. I remain thankful for the encouragement of senior academic and policy figures I have long respected: Lau Teik Soon, Edwin Thumboo, K. Kesavapany, Tony Stockwell, Sumit Ganguly, Gerard Chaliand, Ilan Mizrahi, Tan Tai Yong, Katy Hassig, James Veitch, the late Ong Chit Chung and former Singapore President S. R. Nathan. Special mention must go to Hanna Hunt and her late husband Paul of Egham, Surrey in the UK for accommodating me for several weeks a few years ago to develop some of the ideas that are now in this book. As always, my beloved wife Rosemary and wonderful children Joshua Luke, Jonathan and Jordan Ling were each pillars of strength throughout this process. And finally, I thank God, who continues to keep me steadfast in times of trial. As a “theistic evolutionist”, I remain inspired by the apt observation of the renowned scholar of religion – and one-time skeptic – Rodney Stark: “science is theology and thereby serves as another method for the discovery of God”.

Contents

1	Is Ideology the “Root” of Islamist Terrorism in Indonesia?	1
1.1	An Encounter with a Terrorist – and an Epiphany	1
1.2	The Overall Argument at a Glance.....	3
1.3	The Three Limitations of Extant Scholarship on Islamist Militancy in Indonesia.....	5
1.4	Research Note	8
1.5	The Plan of the Book.....	10
	References.....	11
 Part I The Human Nature Triad Unpacked – The Manichean Mindset, Embattled Religiosity and Violent Fundamentalism
2	The Origins of the “Manichean Mindset”	15
2.1	Introduction	16
2.2	The Great Human Nature Debate.....	17
2.3	Evolutionary Psychology and Our Ancestral Shadow	19
2.4	Darwin, Individual Selection and the Thorny Issue of Cooperation	23
2.5	The Rise of Human “Groupishness”	27
2.6	Social Categorization, Group Selection, and the Uncomfortable Logic of Between-Group Competition.....	31
2.7	Binary Oppositions, the Human Need for Control and the “Group Tent”	37
2.8	The Manichean Mindset Deconstructed.....	43
	References.....	48
3	The Embattled Religiosity of Religious Fundamentalism	53
3.1	Introduction	54
3.2	The Religiosity Instinct and the Cultural Artifact of Religion.....	56
3.3	Religion as an Evolutionary By-Product, Part I: The Pattern-Seeking, Storytelling, Mythmaking Individual	60

3.4	Religion as an Evolutionary By-Product, Part II: The Hyperactive Agency Detection Device	62
3.5	Religion as an Evolutionary Adaptation for the Group: Beyond Kin and Direct Reciprocity	65
3.6	Enter the Meme	71
3.7	The Manichean Mindset, Religious Fundamentalism, and the Potential for Violence	74
	References	82
4	Six Steps Toward Violent Fundamentalism	87
4.1	Introduction	88
4.2	Violent Radicalization, Extremism, or Fundamentalism: What's in a Name?	89
4.2.1	A New Synthesis: Cognitive Radicalization as Drastic Identity Simplification.....	92
4.2.2	Cognitive Radicalism and Cognitive Extremism	95
4.3	A Tight Counterculture	96
4.3.1	Understanding Culture	96
4.3.2	Culture's Evolutionary Rationale.....	98
4.3.3	"Tight" Cultures	99
4.3.4	Relevant Dimensions of Culture	100
4.3.5	Tight Countercultures.....	101
4.4	An Enabling Ideology	104
4.5	The Protean Charismatic Group: Converging Perspectives	105
4.5.1	The Complexity Element of the Human Nature Triad.....	107
4.5.2	The Charismatic Group as Complex Adaptive System.....	108
4.6	Intragroup Psychic Dynamics	110
4.6.1	The Power of the Situation.....	110
4.6.2	The Impulse to Conform	111
4.6.3	Deindividuation.....	112
4.6.4	Obedience to Authority	112
4.6.5	The Dispositionist Objection.....	113
4.6.6	The Echo Chamber Effect.....	116
4.6.7	Online Groups, Optimal Group Size, and Fuzzy Boundaries	119
4.7	The Power of Social Humiliation.....	122
4.8	The Enabling Environment	125
	References	127
 Part II The Human Nature Triad Applied – Violent Islamist Terrorism and Militancy in Indonesia: Origins, Evolution and the Counter-Ideological Response
5	The “Glocalized” Origins of the Darul Islam Counterculture	135
5.1	Introduction	136

5.2	Islam: A Capsule History	136
5.2.1	The Socioecological Milieu	136
5.2.2	The Sufi Emergence	140
5.3	Islam in Southeast Asia	141
5.4	The Glocalization of Southeast Asian Islam and the Emergence of the Traditionalist-Modernist Binary Opposition.....	144
5.4.1	Glocalization Part I: The Traditionalists Emerge	145
5.4.2	Glocalization, Part II: Three Modernist Responses	149
5.5	The Emergence of Violent Islamism.....	164
5.5.1	Sayyid Qutb.....	164
5.5.2	‘Abd al-Salam Faraj	165
5.5.3	Abdullah Azzam.....	165
	References	168
6	The Darul Islam Charismatic Group and Its Violent “Mutations”	173
6.1	Introduction.....	173
6.2	SM Kartosoewirjo and the Origins of the Darul Islam Charismatic Group	174
6.3	Abu Bakar Ba’asyir and the Origins of the Jemaah Islamiyah Network.....	181
6.4	The Many Changing Faces of the Darul Islam Charismatic Group	188
6.5	The Turn to Violence.....	196
6.5.1	Three Recent Mutations of the Darul Islam Charismatic Group	197
	References.....	206
7	Muting Manichean Mindsets in Indonesia: A Counter-Ideological Response.....	211
7.1	Introduction.....	212
7.2	Terrorism and Islamist Violence in Indonesia: The Power of the Manichean Mindset	216
7.3	Muting Manichean Mindsets Through a Counter-Ideological Response	221
7.3.1	Ideology: Not the Root but the Center of Gravity.....	221
7.3.2	Exploiting Ideology to “Steer” the DICG in Desired Directions	223
7.3.3	Steering the DICG via the Counter-Ideological Response Model.....	224
7.3.4	Sender.....	226
7.3.5	Message.....	228
7.3.6	Mechanism	230
7.3.7	Recipient	232
7.3.8	Context	243
7.4	Three Possible Futures	254
7.4.1	Collapse.....	255

7.4.2 Evolution	255
7.4.3 Containment	255
7.5 From the General to the Particular – And Back to the General	257
References	257
Index	265