Virtuous Husbands, Powerful Wives

Maya Mayblin
For Magnus, my virtuous husband.
To marry without love is not a sin, but to die without having learnt to love is.

Many people have helped this book along its way, and I am indebted to every one of them. My greatest debt is to the people of “Santa Lucia,” who welcomed me into their lives with generosity and good spirit. I am especially grateful for the warmth and care provided to me by my host parents, Rita Cassia Oliveira Cadete and José Amauri Cadete, and to Maria de Lourdes Alves, Manuel Cadete da Silva, Maria de Lourdes Cadete, Fabiana Oliveira Cadete Almeida, Andre Alves Almeida, and Maria Lucia Silva Oliveira, and Lucia de Luca who taught me so much.

I am grateful to the Economic and Social Research Council for providing me with a full postgraduate research award. A Malinowski Grant and a Grant from the British Federation of Women Graduates provided much needed financial assistance during the writing up phase. The work on this project began in 2000 at the Department of anthropology, London School of Economics. In Brazil, my research was facilitated through my affiliation with the Universidade Federal de Pernambuco, and I am thankful for the support I received from both these institutions.

There are many in Brazil to whom I owe thanks for the invaluable friendship and the practical and intellectual guidance they provided along the way, including Father Edward Figaroa, Maria Luisa and Carlos Peres da Costa, Dôra Cardoso da Silva, Rigoberta and all the crèche workers: Rosa, Ivanulda, Martha, Mery, and Katia. Also, Margarida and Almir de Oliveira, Adriano Bizerra and his family, Dona Severina Precilia Teixeira, Gileno Vilaça, Eliete Maria da Silva, Marcia de Isaac, Filipe Buckmeyer Wolff, Dimas Fereira de Oliveira, Antônio Cabral, Scott Parry, Salete Cavalcanti, Marcio Goldman, and Tania Stölze-Lima.

While the shortcomings of this work remain exclusively my own, earlier versions of this project benefited immensely from the challenges and suggestions of teachers, colleagues, friends, and anonymous reviewers, including Peter Gow, the late Olivia Harris, João Pina-Cabral, Matthew Engelke, Laurel Kendall, Jonathan Parry, Chris Fuller, Fenella Cannell, Leo Wyndham, Will Norman, Robin Pharoah, Evan Killick, Eve Zucker, Florent Giehmann, Mandira Kalra, Rachel Wrangham, Alice Forbess, Jason Sumich, Amit Desai, and Michelle Obeid. A special debt of gratitude I owe to Michael Scott and Rita Astuti, for the crucial and incalculable contributions they made to this work.

Throughout this project, I have drawn heavily from the bank of support provided by Carmen Miranda, Margaret Course, Bill Mayblin, Andrea Levy, Hannah Mayblin, and Simon Moore. I am especially grateful to Margaret Course and Carmen Miranda for help with copyediting, to Bill Mayblin for his production of a map, and to Hannah, Simon, Carmen, Bill, and Andrea, for providing the childcare I so desperately needed to complete this book.

Finally I must thank Ezra and Willa for enduring my absences and my husband Magnus Course, whose contribution and sacrifice marks every page. My debt to him shall be hard to repay.
