Palgrave Studies in the Enlightenment, Romanticism and Cultures of Print

General Editors: Professor Anne K. Mellor and Professor Clifford Siskin

Editorial Board: Isobel Armstrong, Birkbeck; John Bender, Stanford; Alan Bewell, Toronto; Peter de Bolla, Cambridge; Robert Miles, Stirling; Claudia L. Johnson, Princeton; Saree Makdisi, UCLA; Felicity Nussbaum, UCLA; Mary Poovey, NYU; Janet Todd, Glasgow

Palgrave Studies in the Enlightenment, Romanticism and Cultures of Print will feature work that does not fit comfortably within established boundaries — whether between periods or between disciplines. Uniquely, it will combine efforts to engage the power and materiality of print with explorations of gender, race, and class. By attending as well to intersections of literature with the visual arts, medicine, law, and science, the series will enable a large-scale rethinking of the origins of modernity.

I have been fortunate to receive a great deal of help over the years that I have been working on this book. My deepest intellectual debt is owed to Ina Ferris. She has provided wise council and invaluable feedback at every stage of my project, and I have benefited enormously from her own thinking about nationness and the Romantic period. I am also grateful to Marilyn Butler for her generous advice early on in the process and to Stephen Behrendt and Jane Magrath for their helpful comments near its end. For institutional support in seeing this project through its final stages, I thank the University of Prince Edward Island. I would also like to thank my research assistant Sean Curley for his help preparing the manuscript for submission.

My thanks and love to my partner Isaac Grant whose endless patience and unwavering support made it possible for me to bring this book to completion. I am also obliged to my children, Saul and Una, for accommodating this book in their first years. In appreciation of the boundless encouragement they have given me over the years, I dedicate this book to my parents, Horst and Sharon Wohlgemut.
