Conversations with Angels
Also by Joad Raymond

NEWS, NEWSPAPERS AND SOCIETY IN EARLY MODERN BRITAIN (edited) (1999)

PAMPHLETS AND PAMPHLETEERING IN EARLY MODERN BRITAIN (2003)

NEWS NETWORKS IN SEVENTEENTH CENTURY BRITAIN AND EUROPE (edited) (2006)

MILTON’S ANGELS: The Early-Modern Imagination (2010)

THE OXFORD HISTORY OF POPULAR PRINT CULTURE: Volume one: CHEAP PRINT IN BRITAIN AND IRELAND TO 1660 (edited) (2011)
Conversations with Angels

Essays Towards a History of Spiritual Communication, 1100–1700

Edited by

Joad Raymond

Professor of English Literature, University of East Anglia, UK
Contents

List of Illustrations vii
Acknowledgements ix
Notes on Contributors xi

1 Introduction 1
Joad Raymond

Part I Natural Philosophy

2 Strategies of Interspecies Communication, 1100–2000 25
Walter Stephens

3 Angels and the Physics of Place in the Early Fourteenth Century 49
James Steven Byrne

4 Galileian Angels 67
Nick Wilding

5 Newtonian Angels 90
Simon Schaffer

Part II Magic

6 Speaking with Spirits in Medieval Magic Texts 125
Sophie Page

7 False Illuding Spirits & Counterfeiting Deuills: John Dee’s Angelic Conversations and Religious Anxiety 150
Stephen Clucas

8 ‘Behold, the dreamer cometh’: Hyperphysical Magic and Deific Visions in an Early Modern Theosophical Lab-Oratory 175
Peter J. Forshaw

Part III Representation

9 Singing with the Angels: Hildegard of Bingen’s Representations of Celestial Music 203
William T. Flynn

10 ‘And the angel said ...’: Conversations with Angels in Early Modern Music 230
Jessie Ann Owens
11 Athanasius Kircher’s Guardian Angel 250
   Ingrid D. Rowland

Part IV Reformations

12 Catholic Reformation and the Cult of Angels in Early Modern England 273
   Alexandra Walsham

13 The Guardian Angel in Protestant England 295
   Peter Marshall

14 Radicalism and Mysticism in the Later Seventeenth Century: John Pordage’s Angels 317
   Joad Raymond

Index 341
Illustrations

1.1 A manuscript of solomonic magic, giving instructions on how to summon an angel. University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, uncatalogued manuscript, ‘Crafte of Conjureynge’. 12

4.1 Asterism of the belt and sword of Orion, Sidereus Nuncius (Tommaso Baglioni, Venice, 1610), unnumbered, sig. D5v. Reproduced with permission from Linda Hall Library of Science, Engineering and Technology. 75

4.2 Asterism of the belt and sword of Orion (mislabelled as Pleiades), Sidereus Nuncius (Zacharias Palthenius, Frankfurt, 1610), unnumbered, sig. B9v. Reproduced with permission from Linda Hall Library of Science, Engineering and Technology. 76

4.3 Portrait of Galileo, Istorie e dimonstrazione intorno alle macchie solare. Reproduced with permission from the Museo Galileo. 78

4.4 Michelangelo Merisi da Caravaggio, Saint Matthew with the Angel. Oil on canvas, 223 x 183 cm. Inv. 365. Gemaeldegalerie, Staatliche Museen zu Berlin, Germany. Reproduced with permission from Bildarchiv Preussischer Kulturbesitz/Art Resource, NY. 82

5.1 William Blake: design for Edward Young, Night Thoughts, Night the Ninth, lines 1866–1869. Reproduced with permission from the British Library. 91

5.2 George Bickham, The apotheosis of Isaac Newton, first published 1732, republished in this version in 1787. 96

5.3 Daniel Defoe, Reflexions serieuses et importantes de Robinson Crusoe: suivi d'une vision du monde angelique. Amsterdam (i.e., Paris), 1721. 104

5.4 William Whiston, Scheme of the Seven Heavens (?1745). University Library Cambridge, 1.48.25. 114

7.1 Dee’s ‘Shew'stone’, mounted on a wooden cradle. British Library, Sloane MS 3188, f. 9r. 153

7.2 The ‘Enochian’ or ‘angelic’ alphabet. British Library, Sloane MS 3188, f. 104r. 155

7.3 The ‘Heptagonum stellare’: one of Dee's talismanic ‘instruments’. British Library, Sloane MS 3188, f. 48v. 156
List of Illustrations

7.4 One of the angelic ‘Kings’ who governs ‘enchanters, Coniurers, witches [and] wicked spirites’. British Library, Sloane MS 3188, f. 57r. Courtesy of the trustees of the British Library. 167

8.1 Oratory-Laboratory engraving from Heinrich Khunrath, Amphitheatrum Sapientiae Aeternae. By courtesy of the Department of Special Collections, University of Wisconsin-Madison. 176

8.2 Painting from British Library Sloane Ms. 181 ‘Tabulae Theosophiae Cabbalisticae’. Courtesy of the trustees of the British Library. 184

10.1 Text and Performing Forces in Rosso, Missus est Gabriel angelus 235

10.2 Antiphons in Regis, Missa Ecce ancilla 236

10.3 Juxtaposition of Antiphons and Mass Ordinary in Regis, Missa Ecce ancilla, Credo 239

10.4 Placement of Cantus firmus in Relation to the Gospel 242

10.5 ‘Tota pulchra es’ as a Refrain 243

10.6 ‘Total pulchra es’ as a Descant 243

11.1 Pietro da Cortona, painting of two guardian angels, Palazzo Barberini, Rome 251

11.2 Athanasius Kircher, Itinerarium Extaticum Coeleste 259
Acknowledgements

This volume began life with a conference entitled Conversations with Angels, held at the Centre for Research in the Arts, Social Sciences, and Humanities at Cambridge University from 9 to 10 September 2005. The conference was supported by, and would not have taken place without, awards from the British Academy and from CRASSH, and I gratefully acknowledge them here. I co-ran that conference with Lauren Kassell in the Department of the History and Philosophy of Science at Cambridge. I would like to thank Lauren, who was also involved in the early stages of editing this volume: regrettably she withdrew to focus on other commitments. Thanks also to Professor Ludmilla Jordanova, the Director of CRASSH, for her help in organizing the conference, and for her contributions to discussions, and to Catherine Hurley, CRASSH administrator, for her unfailing assistance. Other speakers and respondents not represented in this volume helped make the conference a stimulating event: they are Stuart Clark, Catherine Rider, Juliet Fleming, Anthony Grafton, Kate Harvey and Frank Klaassen. I would also like to thank those who attended the conference and contributed to its intellectual culture as well as its spirit. Ruth Ireland, my editor at Palgrave Macmillan, has been very patient; I hope the wait was worth it. My father, Pete Raymond, supplied the original artwork on the cover, ‘Light and Dark Angels’.

Joad Raymond
Swaffham Prior, April 2011
Contributors

James Steven Byrne is Lecturer in the Writing Program at Princeton University. He is writing a history of astronomy as practiced at medieval universities. His research interests include the relationship between natural philosophy and theology, and medieval theories of the influence of the celestial realm on the terrestrial world.

Stephen Clucas is Reader in Early Modern Intellectual History at Birkbeck, University of London. He is editor, with Stephen Gaukroger of the journal Intellectual History Review. His most recent publication is a co-edited collection of essays on Marsilio Ficino, entitled Laus Platonici Philosophi: Marsilio Ficino and His Influence (2010).

William T. Flynn is Lecturer in Medieval Latin in the Institute of Medieval Studies at the University of Leeds. His publications include Medieval Music as Medieval Exegesis (1999), and a performing edition of Hildegard of Bingen’s O frondens virga. He has chapters on Hildegard’s poetry and music in Rhetoric Beyond Words, ed. M. Carruthers (2010), and in A Companion to Hildegard of Bingen (with M. Fassler and T. Leigh-Choate), ed. D. Stoudt, G. Ferzoco and B. Kienzle (forthcoming).

Peter J. Forshaw is Assistant Professor in the History of Western Esotericism at the University of Amsterdam’s Center for the History of Hermetic Philosophy and Related Currents. He is editor-in-chief of Aries: Journal for the Study of Western Esotericism and webmaster and elected council member for the Society for Renaissance Studies, Society for the History of Alchemy and Chemistry and European Society for the Study of Western Esotericism. He is currently preparing a monograph, The Mage’s Images: Occult Theosophy in Heinrich Khunrath’s Early Modern Oratory and Laboratory, for Brill’s Studies in Intellectual History and a translation of Khunrath’s Amphitheatrum sapientiae aeternae (1609) for Brill’s Aries Book Series: Texts and Studies in Western Esotericism and is researching books on Christian Cabala in the Early Modern Period and A Cultural History of Alchemy.

Peter Marshall is Professor of early modern religious and cultural history at the University of Warwick. He has co-edited the essay collection Angels in the Early Modern World (2006), and his other books include Beliefs and the Dead in Reformation England (2002), Mother Leakey and the Bishop: A Ghost Story (2007) and The Reformation: A Very Short Introduction (2009).

Jessie Ann Owens is Professor of Music and Dean of the Division of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies in the College of Letters and Science at University of California, Davis. She is the author of Composers at Work: The Craft of Musical Composition 1450–1600 (1997) and series editor of Music Theory in Britain, 1500–1700: Critical Editions.

Sophie Page is Lecturer in medieval history at University College London. She has published on medieval magic, astrology and the history of animals and is currently working on magical diagrams and preparing a monograph on medieval monks and magic.

Joad Raymond is Professor of English Literature at the University of East Anglia. In addition to articles on early-modern literature, politics and print culture, he is the author of The Invention of the Newspaper (1996), Pamphlets and Pamphleteering in Early Modern Britain (2003) and Milton's Angels: The Early Modern Imagination (2010).

Simon Schaffer is Professor of the History of Science in the University of Cambridge. He is the co-editor of The Mindful Hand: Inquiry and Innovation from the Late Renaissance to Early Industrialisation (2007) and of The Brokered World: Go-Betweens and Global Intelligence 1770–1820 (2009). Between 2008 and 2010 he held a Leverhulme Trust Major Research Fellowship.

Walter Stephens is the Charles S. Singleton Professor of Italian Studies at Johns Hopkins University. He has published Giants in Those Days: Folklore, Ancient History, and Nationalism (1989); Demon Lovers: Witchcraft, Sex, and the Crisis of Belief (2002); and numerous essays on Italian authors, especially Torquato Tasso and Umberto Eco. He recently co-edited The Body in Early Modern Italy (2010).

Nick Wilding is Assistant Professor in History at Georgia State University, teaching Early Modern History and the History of Science. He is the recipient of the Renaissance and Early Modern Studies Post-Doctoral Rome Prize. He has published articles and reviews on Galileo, Sagredo, Salusbury, Hooke and Kircher and has worked on several archival databases. He is currently writing a biography of Gianfrancesco Sagredo and preparing a new translation of Galileo’s Dialogue Concerning the Two Chief World Systems. 