Every book has a history and many people who contribute to its success. This project started in the spring of 2008, when the two coeditors began to think about a conference on the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of the fall of the Berlin Wall and its aftermath. Generous funding for this event, which took place at the University of Cincinnati on November 8 and 9, 2009, was provided by the Charles Phelps Taft Memorial Fund, the Faculty Development Council, the University Research Council at the University of Cincinnati, and the German Consulate. Our special thanks go to Wayne E. Hall, Vice Provost for Faculty Development, and Sandra Degen, Vice President for Research, at the University of Cincinnati, for their good advice and their sponsorship. We would also like to express our appreciation to the graduate students who provided support: Sarah Domet and Suzanne Warren were competent and cheerful helpers during the early stages of this book, willing and able to take matters into their own hands when they saw the need for it. Julianne Lynch, our meticulous and perceptive copy editor, kept us on track and helped us see this volume through to completion. Most of all, we are grateful to our contributors. Without their extensive range of expertise and their willingness to abide by our deadlines and endure our criticisms and suggestions, this volume would not exist. For the two of us, this project has strengthened our belief in collaborative work and our friendship.
