Accessible symptoms are those that:

1. are not deeply engraved psychotic ones that have usurped the personality;
2. are not chronic;
3. are not chronically entrenched somatized ones;
4. are not derivative of an organic brain syndrome or genetic anomaly;
5. are not an example of a catastrophic rage implosion as a result of a condition of profound helplessness.
6. remain as an alien part to the psyche and so have not usurped the personality.