Rwanda Fast Forward
Rwanda Fast Forward

Social, Economic, Military and Reconciliation Prospects

Edited by

Maddalena Campioni
Policy Adviser, Scenario Development, UK

and

Patrick Noack
Founding Partner, Scenario Development, UK
Contents

List of Tables and Figures vii
Notes on Contributors viii
Acknowledgements xii

Part I  Introduction

1 Rwanda Fast Forward: the Many Perspectives That Make Rwanda a Unique Country 3
   Maddalena Campioni and Patrick Noack

Part II  Reconciliation, Reconstruction, Unification and Civil Society Issues

2 Rwanda 2025: Scenarios for the Future Political Stability of Rwanda 13
   Esther Marijnen and Jaïr van der Lijn

3 Discordant Narratives in Rwanda's Gacaca Courts 29
   Ananda Breed

4 Participatory Rights in Rwanda: Genocide Ideology Laws and the Future of Political Space 45
   Fred Cowell

5 Independent Actors or Silent Agents: Where To Go for Rwandan Civil Society? 60
   Christiane Adamczyk

6 Deterioration of Aid Coordination in Gacaca Implementation: Dealing with the Past for a Better Future? 76
   Astrid Jamar

7 Peasant Perspectives on National Unity and Reconciliation: Building Peace or Promoting Division? 96
   Susan Thomson

Part III  Economic and Social Development

8 Regional Integration and the Future of Rwanda 113
   Babajide Sodipo and Jacqueline Muna Musiitwa
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Author(s)</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>Rwanda: Overcoming the Industrial Policy Taboo</td>
<td>Joseph Holden</td>
<td>126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>New ‘Friends’ of Rwanda – Chinese Noodles and Indian Curry: An Analysis of Asian Giants’ Forays into Rwanda in the Light of Theories on OFDI</td>
<td>Kamakshi Nanda</td>
<td>145</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11</td>
<td>Communication, Media and the Way Forward</td>
<td>Anna Colom</td>
<td>160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>The Political Economy of Contemporary Education and the Challenges of Switching Formal Language to English in Rwanda</td>
<td>Joseph Assan and Lawrence Walker</td>
<td>176</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13</td>
<td>Civic Education and Social Transformation in Post-Genocide Rwanda: Forging the Perfect Development Subjects</td>
<td>Andrea Purdeková</td>
<td>192</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Part IV Conflict and the Role of the Military</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>The Spread of the ‘Genocide Ideology’ within the Great Lakes Region: Challenges for Rwanda</td>
<td>Frank K. Rusagara</td>
<td>213</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>Between Pyongyang and Singapore: the Rwandan State, Its Rulers, and the Military</td>
<td>Will Jones</td>
<td>228</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>The Role of the Military in Rwanda: Current Dynamics and Future Prospects</td>
<td>Danielle Beswick</td>
<td>249</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>Nurturing Democracy or into the Danger Zone? The Rwandan Patriotic Front, Elite Fragmentation and Post-liberation Politics</td>
<td>Harry Verhoeven</td>
<td>265</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Index 281
List of Tables and Figures

Tables

12.1 Language use and education 179
12.2 List of respondents 181
12.3 Languages spoken in Rwanda 182
17.1 Key dates in Rwanda since 1959 269

Figures

2.1 Four scenarios for Rwanda’s future 24
9.1 Industrial policy success stories 130
9.2 Price volatility of Rwanda’s major exports: 2002–2009 134
9.3 Escaping the commodity trap in Rwanda 140
15.1 Government effectiveness and political stability (RPC):
Rwanda and its neighbours and post-conflict states 231
Notes on Contributors

Christiane Adamczyk, an anthropologist by profession, worked in Rwanda with German Cooperation from 2005 to 2006. Currently she works as an adviser for German Cooperation and is an associated PhD student with the Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology (Germany) where she is writing her thesis on Rwanda’s nation-building and reconciliation policies.

Joseph Assan is a lecturer in Development Practice at Trinity College Dublin where he is the Field Clinical Training Director for the Masters in Development Practice Programme. Joseph was the Director for the International Development Programme at the University of Liverpool, UK. His research interest focuses on the interaction between development policy and how it translates into practice. Joseph was awarded his PhD by the Department of Geography, University of Liverpool.

Danielle Beswick is a lecturer in the International Development department at the University of Birmingham, UK. Her research focuses primarily on Rwanda’s relationship with donors and its regional neighbours since the 1994 genocide. She has published peer-reviewed articles on Rwanda’s involvement in peacekeeping, the challenges of managing political dissent after genocide, and the impact of national identity policies on the minority Batwa group in Rwanda.

Ananda Breed is Senior Lecturer at the University of East London, UK. Between 2005 and 2006, Ananda conducted doctoral research in Rwanda that incorporated the performativity of nationalism, justice and reconciliation through grassroots associations, Gacaca, commemorations and memorials, Ingando solidarity camps, and theatrical productions. She has served as a participatory theatre consultant, conducting projects in Congo, Indonesia and Kyrgyzstan related to theatre for peace-building. Her upcoming book is Performing the Nation: Justice, Genocide, and Reconciliation.

Maddalena Campioni has worked on developing scenarios and critical policy thinking for the past ten years. Her analytical work and writing have included international development, climate change and health planning and policy throughout Africa, Europe, Russia and the United States. She is currently based at the London School of Hygiene and
Notes on Contributors

Tropical Medicine and the London School of Economics and Political Science, and is Partner at Scenario Development.

Anna Colom, formerly a journalist, holds an MSc in Development Studies (SOAS) and currently specialises in Communication for Development research and policy. Anna worked at the Ministry of Information of the Government of Rwanda at a time when the Ministry was undertaking various significant developments in the area of information and communication. She has also worked for international and local non-governmental organisations in Latin America, Africa, Asia and Europe.

Fred Cowell is currently the Legal Officer at the Commonwealth Human Rights Initiative (CHRI), an international NGO that promotes human rights in Commonwealth countries. He is also a doctoral student (on human rights regimes in Africa), and lectures in Law at Birkbeck College, University of London. Fred has published half a dozen academic articles and chapters of books focusing mainly on comparative human rights and human rights institutions and was formerly head of CHRI’s London office.

Joseph Holden is an independent consultant. In East Africa he has worked on projects for USAID, DFID and the UN. He spent two years working for the Ministry of Trade and Industry in Rwanda, where amongst other work he developed the National Competition Policy and the Rwanda Investor Perception Index. He previously worked for Deloitte & Touche and the National Audit Office in the United Kingdom.

Astrid Jamar obtained a BA in Political Sciences, a MA in International Relations, and an MA in Peace Studies. She has undertaken research on transitional justice in Rwanda since 2006, during which she gained working experience with Avocats Sans Frontières, Penal Reform International and the National Service of the Gacaca Courts. At the time of writing, she was a research assistant for the Gacaca Narratives Project at the University of East London, UK.

Jaïr van der Lijn is a Senior Research Fellow at the Clingendael Institute, the Netherlands. He holds a PhD in Management Sciences from Radboud University Nijmegen, where he is also currently lecturing as an Assistant Professor at the Centre for International Conflict Analysis and Management. He has mainly published on peace operations and future foresight studies, in journals such as Foresight and Journal of International Peacekeeping.
Will Jones is a lecturer in Politics at Hertford College, Oxford. He is a convenor of the Oxford Central African Forum, has contributed to work on Rwanda for the Commonwealth Human Rights Initiative, and teaches African Politics across the university.

Esther Marijnen holds a BSc in Political Science from the University of Amsterdam. She conducted research in Rwanda for her thesis ‘The Role of Development Aid in Post Conflict Societies. A Case Study: The Future of Rwanda: Social Cohesion or Social Disruption?’ The research for this thesis served as the basis for her chapter.

Jacqueline Muna Musiitwa is the founder and Managing Partner of Hoja Law Group, a law firm that bridges the African development divide through advising on deals deemed to create wealth for Africa. Jacqueline is a World Economic Forum Young Global Leader and an Archbishop Desmond Tutu fellow of the African Leadership Institute. She is a frequent speaker, writer and commentator on African affairs.

Kamakshi Nanda is a researcher who has been keenly following the economic-political presence and growth of the Asian Giants in Africa. It led to her writing the article ‘India-Africa: Forgotten Unity?’ Her Master’s dissertation ‘Call Us Friends or Partners – a Comparison of China and India’s Quest for Energy in Sub-Saharan Africa’ won an award from the Erasmus Mundus Global Studies consortium. She has previously worked with UNESCO and the Habitat International Coalition.

Patrick Noack has been developing scenarios and thinking about the future for the past decade. He has worked as advisor to governments, UN organisations and corporates on international development, climate change and sustainability in Africa, Asia, Europe and the United States. He is based in London and is Partner at Scenario Development.

Andrea Purdeková has recently finished her DPhil in Development Studies at the University of Oxford where she studied the politics of reconciliation in post-genocide Rwanda. Andrea’s principal research interests include conflict and post-conflict transitions; reconciliation and transitional justice; state and stateness in Africa; nation-building and identity politics. Andrea holds an MSc in Forced Migration from Oxford and an MA in International Relations from Johns Hopkins SAIS. Her latest publication is: “Even If I Am Not Here, There Are So Many Eyes”: Surveillance and State Reach in Rwanda.’

Frank Rusagara, a Brigadier-General, is the Defence Advisor at the Rwanda High Commission in London and was previously Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Defence, President of the Rwanda Military Court, and G1 – General Staff Commandant of the Rwanda Military Academy, Nyakinama. He is the author of The Resilience of a Nation: A Military History of Rwanda and is a PhD candidate in Politics and International Studies at SOAS, University of London.

Babajide Sodipo is the Managing Director of the Policy Advisory Group (PAG), a consulting firm focused on providing advisory services on trade, regional integration and private-sector development in Africa. He is a legal and policy expert with experience in trade and regional integration efforts in Eastern and Southern Africa and has been involved in the negotiation and implementation of key regional integration work in East Africa.

Susan Thomson, a Mellon post-doctoral fellow in Contemporary African Politics and Society at Hampshire College, Amherst, USA, received her PhD in political science from Dalhousie University. Her research and teaching interests are in state–society relations in contemporary Africa and qualitative research methods, with particular focus on research ethics and doing research in difficult environments. Her work on contemporary Rwanda has been published in African Affairs, African Studies Review, the Journal of Modern African Studies and the International Journal of Transitional Justice.

Harry Verhoeven is finishing a DPhil in the Department of Politics and International Relations of the University of Oxford (St Cross College). He specialises in intra-regime dynamics in East and Central Africa, the geopolitics of the Nile and the links between post-liberation politics and violence. His chapter in this volume forms part of a wider project on the Great African War and the rise and fall of the alliance between Laurent Kabila, the Congolese Tutsi, Rwanda and Uganda.

Lawrence Walker currently works as Programmes Administrator for Locality, the UK’s leading network for community-led organisations. His work in the community development sector involves providing advice and guidance on issues relating social justice, community engagement, education, collective action and self-reliance through enterprise and common ownership.
Acknowledgements

The Editors and Authors gratefully acknowledge the inputs and support provided by Richard Dowden, Executive Director of the Royal African Society for his contributions in the early stages of this project, and an anonymous reviewer who provided much valuable advice on earlier versions of papers in this collection.