Demographic considerations should be a source of continued interest as taste and economics change with respect to specialty choice. In this regard, radiology is in a state of flux. Increasing still are the absolute number and percentages of individuals, now mostly American, of South Asian ancestry, while the percentage of women trainees stays stubbornly constant.

Chapter 22—Who Will Be the New Radiologist?: A 2012 Assessment
Chapter 23—Women in Radiology
Chapter 24—South Asians in Radiology in the United States, Part I
Chapter 25—South Asians in Radiology in the United States, Part II