This book is dedicated to our friend, colleague, and brilliant radiologist, who left us much too early. Gary Glazer was a CT pioneer, contributing some of our earliest understandings to the value of CT in the assessment of neoplasia, particularly metastatic involvement of mediastinal lymph nodes. He is, however, best remembered and revered for his leadership in building groundbreaking research programs rooted in a culture of collegiality and teamwork that was ahead of its time, serving as a model for innovation in a world of academia that is often hindered by silos. His passion for international collaboration in education and research was visionary and provided a basis for many meaningful collaborations and lasting friendships, including those that bind us and our diverse contributors from around the world.
