This part presents an extension of dynamic programming for combinatorial optimization problems. We considered four different classic optimization problems (which have simple dynamic programming solutions):

1. Matrix chain multiplication,
2. Binary search trees,
3. Global sequence alignment, and
4. Shortest paths.

In the following, we discuss, in detail, the multi-stage optimization for all these four problems.